MARGINS SLASHED

Seek To Check Stock Declines

CASH REQUIRED TO BUY SHARES REDUCED TO 50 PER CENT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government slashed stock margin requirements Wednesday as continued declines in American income and output were reported for December.

Effective Thursday, the Federal Reserve Board announced, stock market margins will be cut from 70 to 50 per cent.

It was obviously a move aimed at helping counteract the business recession and an accompanying decline of stock market values.

A short time before the Reserve Board made its announcement, the Commerce Department reported that personal income fell in December to an annual rate of $342,800,000,000, or 2½ billion below the November rate.

The margin in stock trading is the minimum amount of cash that a stock buyer must furnish when purchasing stocks (or selling them short) on major exchanges. The remainder of the cost may be borrowed from brokers.

The 70 per cent margin was imposed by the Reserve Board in April, 1955, as an anti-inflation measure.

In San Francisco, where the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange was still open when the margin reduction was announced, prices spurted ahead in active trading. Buying orders began to appear from other parts of the country.

One exchange official commented: "The 70 per cent requirement has been a deterrent to purchasing of securities on margin."

Wall Street Surprised

Wall Street's first reaction to the slash to 50 per cent was surprise.

"The margin reduction comes as a complete surprise and should give the market a temporary lift," said Lucien Hooper, investment analyst of W. E. Hutton & Co., New York brokers. Hooper said he saw the move as part of a general Washington offensive against a deteriorating business situation.

Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said the action is "gratifying recognition that sound use of credit is important in security risk markets."

He said the credit being used in the Stock Market—as measured by the net debit of balances of New York Stock Exchenge members' customers—is at the lowest level in three years.

Walter Dixon, partner in charge of margin accounts for E. F. Hutton & Co., New York, said "it comes rather sudden-like but I don't think it will make a terrible difference."

Hailed As Bullish

William Nulty, partner in New York's Dreyfus & Co., called it a pleasant surprise. "I think it's very bullish, both from the standpoint of activity and prices," he said.

Winthrop H. Smith, directing partner of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane, the nation's largest brokerage firm, said: "It would indicate that Federal Reserve Board no longer feels inflation is our most important danger."

Soviets Claim Their Suggestion For Relaxing Tensions Avoided By U.S.

MOSCOW (AP)—Tass news agency said Wednesday night President Eisenhower in his message to Premier Bulganin tried to blame the Soviet Union for world tensions.

The dispatch from Washington was the first Soviet reaction to the President's reply to Bulganin's letter of Dec. 10.

It also was the first Soviet acknowledgment of the Eisenhower message since it was delivered to the Soviet Foreign Ministry Sunday. The Soviet press has published nothing on the Eisenhower letter.

Tass said the President avoided the Soviet suggestion for relaxing tension and stabilizing peace.

The dispatch asserted the President failed to give a direct answer to the proposals made in Bulganin's note of Dec. 10 for an East-West summit meeting.

Preference

Tass said Eisenhower expressed preference for settlement of international problems through diplomatic channels and by a meeting of foreign ministers "although the Soviet Union's proposals for a summit conference to settle these problems received broad support in many countries, including the United States."

The dispatch said Eisenhower failed to touch on Bulganin's Jan. 8 letter pertaining to other proposals for easing world tension.

Normally, Tass dispatches, while not official Kremlin reaction, may be regarded as setting the pattern for an official Soviet reply in due time.

pears to be a possibility of an understanding."

The Western position on Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's latest proposals seemed further solidified along the pattern set by President Eisenhower's response Sunday.

The 82-year-old West German Chancellor expressed his views in an extraordinary radio broadcast, apparently summing up points he plans to include in his reply to Bulganin later this week.

Italy sent a bluntly worded note to Bulganin Wednesday, over the signature of Premier Adone Zoli, declaring the time is not yet ripe for a new summit meeting. A high government official said this also took the position such a parley must be preceded by a meeting of experts to draw up an agenda for the government chiefs.

NATO's permanent council in Paris put its final approval on Britain's reply, which is expected to be dispatched soon.

L. K. Cramb Files For 1st District

Editor At Fairbury Seeks Congress Post

L. K. Cramb of Fairbury, 75, editor of the Fairbury Journal, filed Wednesday as a contender for the Democratic nomination as representative of the First Congressional District.

Clair Callan of Odell, 37-year-old businessman and stockman, and Samuel Freeman of Fairbury, 90-year-old farmer, also have filed seeking the Democratic nomination for the post.

Born on a farm near Fairbury, Cramb attended a rural school and the Fairbury High School. He lived in Washington and Oregon for a number of years, and for the past 25 years has been associated with The Fairbury Journal, serving as editor for the past several years.

Active In Civic Affairs

An active participant in civic affairs, Cramb made this statement of principles on national affairs:

"The most important problem before the American people today is one of survival as pointed out by the Rockefeller survey and the Gaither report on our national defense. We must do everything possible to meet the menace of Communism and the dangers of an attack by Russia.

"The dangerous position we are now in is due largely to the complacency of the present national administration, and the fact that leading Republicans, including members of Congress from this state, have opposed adequate defense, including missile development and atomic research."

The Fairbury editor said he believes it is "possible to provide more for research and national defense without unbalancing the budget and increasing taxes."

Backs Ike Peace Try

He contends our foreign policy should be "non-political" and that the President "should be backed" in his efforts for peace.

Cramb considers the nation's chief domestic issue to be the "plight of the farmer."

He stated that "whenever the farmer is not prosperous, our whole economy is out of balance," and declared the "first step in restoring better conditions in agriculture is to get rid of Secretary of Agriculture Benson."

Cramb said he favors taking marginal land out of production, reducing crop acreage of larger farms to a greater extent than smaller farms, and encouraging exports of agricultural products in exchange for products we need from other countries.

The Fairbury editor said he will wage a "vigorous campaign for the nomination and my election."

Union Asks Elgin Meet Next Week

Elgin National Watch Workers Union officials pressed Wednesday for a meeting "sometime next week" to negotiate with Elgin company officials concerning moving expenses and severance pay (plus other management aid) for Elgin workers in Lincoln who will find themselves without jobs at the plant this year.

Elgin has announced the gradual closing of the Lincoln plant this year due to a decreased market for American-made watches and the necessity to relocate its micronics division work "nearer to the division's customers."

The company agreed to "discuss matters" affecting the 800 employes with union officials after Robert T. Dean, president of the Lincoln chapter of the union, asked for "collective bargaining to work out problems engendered by your decision to close."

No Definite Word

Dean said that he had received no definite word from Elgin officials as to when a meeting might be held. He stressed the need for a conference "as soon as possible."

He termed Elgin's agreement to negotiate "encouraging."

Dean said Elgin workers were "entitled" to severence pay and moving allowances and expenses which have been asked by the union.

Elgin "can afford to pay it," Dean insisted.

Harold E. Corr, vice president and general manager of Elgin's watch division said "the union leadership knows we cannot afford the approximately $1 million in severence pay and moving expenses they have demanded . . . without endangering the entire company."

Calls Move 'Evasive'

Dean termed the gradual closing of the plant "evasive," asking that Elgin officials inform employes as soon as possible when, where and how fast the cuts in employment will take place.

Richard H. Brandes, plant manager, told The Star he expected Elgin to operate, in part, "for the rest of the year."

"Nothing new" in the phasing out plans has developed since the original announcement, he said.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Tom Southard, 21, also of Kimball, according to the State Safety Patrol. Driver of the other car involved was identified as Jack Spurgen, 22, of Kimball.

Peru Quake Fatal To 22

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Twenty-two or more persons were killed and several score were injured Wednesday by a 90-second earthquake that struck the lofty Andes city of Arequipa.

The mountain metropolis of 132,000 lies 7,800 feet above sea level. A radio broadcast from Arequipa heard here said 22 dead had been identified at a morgue.

Miraflores, a city of 16,000 adjoining Arequipa, and neighboring Tiabaya village were four-fifths demolished, radio reports from the region said. Normal communications were wrecked and information from the area, after early press reports, came from amateur radio broadcasters.

The quake was felt strongly in Moquega, capital of the province of Moquega, at Puerto Pisco, and in Arica, northern Chile.

Residents at Arica fled into the streets in panic. No casualties or damage were reported there immediately.

The radio reports said Misti Volcano, overlooking Arequipa, showed signs of activity.

PTA Will Work With Tax Groups

The executive committee of the Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers emphasized Wednesday night that local units of their organization are now considering proposed legislative programs for 1958-59, but the ten-member committee voted in favor of "co-operating with other groups interested in broadening of the tax base which would bring about substantial support of the common schools."

In so doing, the executive committee, at a meeting in Lincoln, gave approval to efforts now underway to form a United Tax Council which would be made up of various groups interested in working together toward broadening Nebraska's tax base.

The Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers held a legislative workshop in Lincoln with some 40 members present to discuss several proposals for educational legislation in 1958-59.

Don Kline, executive secretary of the Nebraska State Education Association, explained to workshop members the now delayed NSEA's original proposal to lead a petition campaign for a constitutional amendment to broaden the tax base.

Kline also outlined the general statement of principles which has been suggested as the basis for forming a United Tax Council.

These include proposals that no state property tax be levied for the general fund after 1959, that state property taxes levied for special funds (totaling 1.50 mills) be continued, leave the door open for special state property taxes in the event of an emergency, and state support for education to be determined by the legislature.

Plane Lost In Typhoon; 10 Aboard

GUAM (Thursday) (AP)—An Air Force typhoon reconnaissance plane with 10 men aboard is missing in typhoon Ophelia about 500 miles west of Guam.

The Air Force said the plane last reported its position at 11:30 p.m. Wednesday night at a point near the eye of the storm and its 145-mile-an-hour winds. It has been overdue since 9:50 a.m. Thursday.

A plane from the 79th Air Rescue Squadron flew to the area Thursday but its crew reported the winds could not be penetrated. The search plane remained in the vicinity four hours trying vainly for a radio contact with the reconnaissance plane.

Radar-equipped Constellation planes were assigned to the search.

Navy officials said the last message from the reconnaissance plane gave no hint of any trouble. The storm was moving northward at 16 miles an hour.

Dosek Expected To File For Governor

Green, Morrison Both Discussed As Democrats For Senate Seat

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Edward A. Dosek, 58-year-old Lincoln insurance man, will almost certainly seek the Democratic gubernatorial nomination this year.

Rumors to that effect have been prevalent in Democratic circles the past week, but it was learned Wednesday that the decision is all but final.

Meanwhile, two big names made the rounds as possible Democratic candidates for the Senate seat held by Roman Hruska of Omaha.

James F. Green, 41-year-old Omaha attorney who opposed Hruska in 1954, and Frank Morrison, 52-year-old Lincoln attorney who was top Democratic vote-getter in 1956 in his contest for lieutenant governor, were reportedly considering making the race for the Senate seat.

Dosek has said that he has been "amazed" and "encouraged" by the number of calls he has received from "staunch Republicans" and leading Democrats asking him to run for the office.

'Dissension'

He regards this as an indication of "dissension and dissatisfaction" in Republican ranks.

Father of six children, Dosek, former Butler County farm owner, won the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor in 1944 and 1950, and lost to former Gov. Keith Neville of North Platte in a race for his party's senatorial nomination in 1954.

Dosek

No one has yet filed for the gubernatorial nomination of either party, although Gov. Victor Anderson is expected to announce shortly.

Green told The Star Wednesday night that he is "interested, as a fire horse always is when the bell rings" but that at this time "it is no more than a possibility."

Doesn't Know Yet

"I really don't know yet," Green said. "It would depend upon the circumstances."

In Lincoln, Morrison told The Star that "it is nothing more than a rumor. It all depends on numerous factors."

No one has filed for the Senate seat, although Sen. Hruska will make an announcement soon, it is understood.

Morrison has run for high state office four times. He sought congressional seats in 1948 and 1954, ran for governor in 1950 and lost to Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney of Hartington in 1956 by a 292,135-243,639 count.

Green was making his first bid for a state-wide elective office in 1954 when Hruska defeated him, 250,341 to 160,881 votes.

Of significance is the fact that Morrison defeated Burney in Douglas County, 56,902 to 54,300. It is generally accepted that a Democratic candidate for Omahan Hruska's seat must be strong in Douglas.

Green has been extremely active in Omaha—former commander of Omaha Post No. 1 of the American Legion; named Omaha's outstanding young man of the year in 1950 by the Junior Chamber of Commerce; former director of the Metropolitan Utilities District; former Douglas County Democratic chairman; attended Creighton University Law School, and an Omahan since 1938.

35 Snatched From Derelict Ship Halves

Rescue Flotilla Searches West Mediterranean For Three

ALGIERS (AP) — At least 35 crewmen were snatched Wednesday from the broken halves of the Norwegian tanker Seirstad in the stormy Mediterranean.

A rescue flotilla of many nations churned the western Mediterranean Wednesday night looking for three crewmen still missing.

The multi-nation rescuers battled all day to reach the crewmen trapped on the derelict halves of the ship.

The 9,974-ton tanker snapped in two just before dawn about 100 miles southeast of Majorca, largest of Spain's Balearic Islands.

The French Admiralty here announced that the little 4,740-ton Italian steamer Rubicone from Ravenna picked up seven crew members from the drifting bow just at dusk.

The Rubicone did not mention the other three men who were believed marooned on the bow.

Circling

The admiralty said there was a possibility some other ship had taken them off, but rescue craft were still circling the choppy seas as the darkness fell.

The 8,274-ton Dutch freighter Bintang, first on the scene, radioed earlier she had rescued 28 crewmen who presumably had been taken off the stern.

The dramatic story began unfolding with an SOS from the Bintang which reported it had picked up 15 of the Seirstad's sailors. The SOS at first led to fears that the Bintang itself was in trouble from the same tempest that had broken the tanker.

Later the Bintang said it had rescued 13 more men, but that the bow of the tanker had floated away and was lost.

A French Air Force plane which flew over the area and failed to sight the bow also reported that part of the ship had gone down.

Still Afloat

But late in the afternoon the Admiralty announced that both bow and stern were still afloat and that 10 men had been sighted aboard the bow by a rescue plane.

The Admiralty dispatched three escort ships, the Berbere, Arabe and Coutelas from Algiers to join the other rescue vessels. These could not reach the scene much before darkness.

Spanish naval authorities sent the minelayer Triton from Palma de Mallorca in the Balearic Islands.

The 20-year-old Sierstad, owned by A. F. Klaveness and Co., of Oslo, was en route from Saudi Arabia to Barcelona, Spain, with a cargo of oil when it ran into the tempest that raged all day Tuesdy and Tuesday night.

Warmer Air To Envelop State's East

The warming trend which brought temperatures up in the 50s in western Nebraska Wednesday was expected to bring higher readings and some sunshine to the east by Thursday.

Temperature highs in the east were expected to move into the 45-50 degree range Thursday under sunny skies.

The State high reading Wednesday at Imperial was 53, with North Platte, Sidney, Scottsbluff and Chadron all recording 50. Imperial also had the Wednesday low temperature of 6.

Highs in eastern Nebraska ranged from 35 at Lincoln to 22 at Norfolk.

Ike Backs Away

His Firm Stand On Reshuffle Dropped

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower backed away Wednesday from the firm determination he expressed last week to reorganize the Defense Department swiftly for the space era.

Eisenhower told his news conference that his own idea of what should be done, "no matter how strong, cannot be the final answer." He said the answer must be worked out after "many conferences" in which the views of Congress and the three armed services will be sought.

Last Thursday, in his State of the Union message to Congress, Eisenhower said he was studying defense reorganization.

"Soon my own conclusions will be finalized," he said. "I shall promptly take such executive action as is necessary and, in a separate message, I shall present appropriate recommendations to the Congress."

Secretary of Defense McElroy Wednesday gave yet another indication that it may be some time before the administration formulates a reorganization plan.

Three Men

McElroy told newsmen he is calling on three top military men—one each from the three services—and an unspecified number of civilians to advise him on recommendations to submit to Eisenhower.

The three officers McElroy termed "my principal military consultants" have headed the present military command system as chairmen of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. They are Gen. Nathan F. Twining, the present chairman of the Joint Chiefs, and Gen. Omar Bradley and Adm. Arthur Radford, both retired.

Last week a high administration official said Eisenhower had taken personal command of moves to reorganize the Defense Department. McElroy, however, seemed to indicate that he expected to put the plan into shape.

The Defense Secretary emphasized that he will make the decision on what steps to recommend to Eisenhower. He said his advisers won't constitute another study committee but will act as individual advisers.

Eisenhower gave no hint in his State of the Union message of any plan he had in mind for bringing greater unity to the often-bickering services.

In The Dark

He also kept his news conference Wednesday in the dark, though he said "it certainly must be clear to most of you people that my own convictions about the proper organization of the Defense Department are rather fixed."

Eisenhwer said he has "given many, many active hours to this kind of study" since 1947, when he was army chief of staff.

"I think my views are completely objective, and with nothing whatsoever of personal bias in them," he said. But, he went on, his term will expire in three years and whatever plan is adopted must extend beyond that time.

The defense organization, he declared, "has got to be effective after there has passed from the scene a man who happens to have particular strong convictions in the matter."

For that reason, he said, "there must be a consensus reached . . . with the Congress, with the people that have the job of operating the services to get the very finest kind of organization we can."

Argument

He said he looks for a good deal of argument and a lot of conferences before a blueprint is ready for congressional action. He said his views will be expressed during this process but "if the trend and tendency is not in that direction, then I couldn't possibly have anything to do with it."

Eisenhower did not clarify this last statement, but he seemed to be indicating he would chuck out his own ideas if there was strong sentiment against them.

In 1947 Eisenhower advocated a system under which a single chief of staff would command all the armed forces. Congress rejected this proposal, however, in favor of the Joint Chiefs system in which all members are on an equal footing with the chairman.

McElroy's disclosure that he is taking action toward reorganization brought an expression of approval from Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas.

"Somebody has got to take action," Johnson said at a public hearing of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee which he heads.

IMPROVEMENT NEEDS TOLD

Most Basic Is To Keep City 'Good Place To Live'—Lovelace

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln must do several things to encourage its growth, but the most basic is develop and maintain the city "as a good place to live," Eldridge Lovelace of St. Louis, Mo., told the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce at a Wednesday luncheon meeting.

In today's intense competition for industrial growth, the Harland Bartholomew & Associates city planner said, industry will go where people "want to live."

Lovelace also listed these things:

1. Some revision of the comprehensive plan, particularly toward reviewing the industrial sites problem.
2. Directed efforts toward "planned industrial district" rather than tax preference measures.
3. Include urban renewal in future planning.

Tremendous Strides

Lovelace told the group that Lincoln has made "truly tremendous strides" in city planning as compared with 10 years ago, but should examine its economic development.

"In Lincoln with so much basic employment in the public category—state and federal government, the university, and air base—there is a basic weakness in the tax base to be overcome."

Residential areas represent a tax deficit that must be supplied by commercial and industrial areas, he said.

He said Lincoln's assessed valuation of $1,322 per capita in 1950 has decreased to $1,245 today. He cited one industrial community with a $55,000 assessed value per capita.

NU An Exception

Lincoln's future growth is not likely from state offices, future air base expansion, or trends in the trade territory, according to Lovelace. "One striking exception is the future growth of the University of Nebraska."

Lovelace said Lincoln has had phenomenal growth from 100,000 in 1950 to 129,000 and the future population estimate of 140,000 must be raised to 175,000 by 1980.

The city planner said Lincoln must look to industrial and commercial expansion, but he cautioned civic leaders not to overlook existing business enterprises in efforts to attract new ones.

Regional Factors

Lovelace said "regional" factors—accessibility to raw materials, transportation to markets, labor supply and state tax structures—are a factor in industrial growth in a community.

But, he added, when overall regional factors are considered, the choice of community for industrial expansion narrows to two elements of considerable importance.

These, he said, were the "quality of the community" and "availability of adequate industrial sites."

Lovelace said the city has both favorable assets and problems, but rated Lincoln as "a very good—if not extraordinarily good— city in which to live."

Land Use Simple

He termed Lincoln's land use organization as relatively simple. "The residential areas can grow in a simple, progressive manner to the south, southeast and east, while industries can grow in an equally simple and unhampered manner to the north, northwest and west."

Lovelace warned against efforts to bend or warp the comprehensive plan to personal desires of the moment.

"The best way to harm Lincoln's future and impede its industrial and commercial growth would be to locate these uses in areas that would adversely affect living conditions or impede residential growth.

Lovelace said there is plenty of industrial and commercial land provided in the comprehensive plan. "There is no practical reason why the plan cannot be followed with only a very few minor changes."

"But," he said, "we have been making too many changes in the zoning ordinance and about 90 per cent of the changes have been in the wrong direction."

Praises Points

Lovelace said the city has a good school system, few blighted residential areas, reasonable local taxes, and good public utilities that are catching up with growth.

But, he said, there are some major problems in connection with traffic, off-street parking, recreation and maintenance of the "good qualities that we do have."

He said Mayor Bennett Martin's 10-year street program "will do much to eliminate the city's traffic problems."

In summing up, Lovelace said that greatest attraction in the competition for industry is to have a city which is a "good place to live."

New Ordinance Cuts Issuance Liquor Licenses

OMAHA (AP)—The Omaha City council approved a new ordinance to cut issuance of new liquor licenses.

It provides that no new Class C licenses may be granted to other than new hotels, bowling alleys and steakhouse-type restaurants, and new non-class C licenses.

Council President A. V. Sorensen said that despite the ordinance any applicant getting four favorable license votes from the council would have his application sent on to the State Liquor Commission at Lincoln for final disposal.

Extradition Hearing Set In Local Child-Stealing Charges

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—An extradition hearing will be conducted in Gov. Orval Faubus' office Monday to decide whether a North Little Rock woman and her 35-year-old son will be returned to Nebraska to face child-stealing charges.

Involved in the case are Mrs. Bertha Huddleston, her son James Bradley Henry, also of North Little Rock, and his 6-year-old daughter, Marilyn Sue.

A hearing on the fugitive charge was postponed in Little Rock Municipal Court Wednesday at the request of Mrs. Huddleston and Henry's attorney, pending the extradition hearing.

Dale Price, the attorney, said Mrs. Huddleston and Henry would refuse to waive extradition to Nebraska where they are wanted for the alleged stealing of Marilyn Sue from Cedars Home For Children at Lincoln several months ago.

Mrs. Huddleston was granted custody of her granddaughter when Henry and the child's mother were divorced in 1953. A year later, the mother married Herbert Martin and Mrs. Huddleston voluntarily allowed Mrs. Martin to take the child, under bond, to live in Texas.

Custody Reaffirmed

Then Mrs. Huddleston's custody was reaffirmed at another hearing at which Mrs. Martin was given visitation rights. During one of these visits, Mrs. Martin allegedly took the child to Nebraska without the grandmother's permission.

Marilyn Sue was placed in Cedars Home pending settlement of custody. Henry's attorney said Nebraska authorities apparently do not recognize jurisdiction of the Arkansas courts that awarded custody to Mrs. Huddleston.

In another angle of the complex case, County Prosecutor J. Frank Holt of Little Rock initiated extradition proceedings against the Martins, charging them with removing the child from Arkansas illegally. Both are free under $1,000 bonds and reportedly are in Lincoln. Marilyn Sue is now living with Mrs. Huddleston.

Liebers U.S. Chamber Post Chance Urged

State Senator Otto H. Liebers of Lincoln will be sponsored by the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce this spring as candidate for a board of directors position with the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

The Lincoln Chamber will back Liebers for one of the two board positions representing agriculture.

Lincoln Chamber president, Harold F. Hoppe, commented that the present U. S. Chamber board member will probably run for re-election of the two-year term. He is Francis R. Wilcox of Los Angeles, Calif., president of the Sunkist Fruit Growers Association. The other director representing agriculture is from Maine, and has one more year to serve.

"We feel that a midwesterner such as Mr. Liebers is eminently qualified, and we'll ask other Chambers to support that view," Hoppe said.

Abbott Was Member

The late Chris Abbott of Hyannis, represented agriculture in the U. S. Chamber for many years. He was later national vice president.

Two other Lincolnites, George W. Holmes and R. E. Campbell, also have served on the U. S. Chamber's board, as have Clyde Dempster of Beatrice and Arthur Stoddard of Omaha.

Sen Liebers has been a director and an executive committeeman of the American Guernsey Cattle Club since 1954. He has received numerous honors from the University of Nebraska and other institutions and organizations for his contributions to the advancement of agriculture.

He has served as director of the Lincoln Chamber and is active in many of its projects.

Roy Brown, 59, Of Madison, Dies

Roy Brown, 59, of Madison, died Wednesday in Lincoln.

Surviving is a cousin, Mac Dobson of Madison.

L. J. Vosika Heads City Credit Union

Following a banquet of approximately 350 Lincoln city employees and their families sponsored by the City Employes Credit Union Wednesday night, officers for the next year were elected by the board of directors.

L. J. Vosika, water department employe, was named president. James M. Mallon of the city coordinator department was elected vice president. Helen M. Stein of the legal department was re-elected secretary. Ray E. Ramsey, personnel director, is treasurer.

Sam Hesser of the fire department was elected to fill a vacancy on the board of directors.

Special guests were Mayor and Mrs. Bennett Martin, councilmen Hugh Thorne and Del Tyrrell and their wives, Director of Banking J. F. McLain and his wife, Deputy Director of Banking Les Opper and his wife, and Rosco Lodwig of Omaha.

CHARACTER ACTOR BARNETT IS BURIED

EL MONTE, Calif. (AP)—Funeral services were held Wednesday for Griff Barnett, 73, a character actor for more than 50 years in movie, stage and radio shows. He died at his home here Sunday.

The actor, whose real name was Manley Griffith and who was born in Blue Ridge, Tex., probably was best known for his six years on radio as the family druggist in the Phil Harris-Alice Faye show.

In the 1920s he appeared on the stage throughout the Midwest and was a director of stock companies in the Chicago area.

Neighbors' Meet Protests Negro Family Renting Home

Twenty-seven Lincoln property owners, "representing 300-600 other interested persons," Wednesday protested the moving of a Negro family into their previously all-white neighborhood.

They cited "living with Negroes" as their chief complaint, with an alleged loss of property value as a "poor second."

The group, whose division between sexes was slightly weighted to the female side, told The Star at a meeting called at a white home next door to where the Negro family of five now resides, that the action was "unjust" and "done for spite."

Call It 'Unfair'

The person who rented the home to the Negro family did so "purposely without trying first to get a white family," a spokesman for the group charged. This is "unfair practice," he said.

The Negro family is the first ever to live in their section of town, several members of the group said. The person who rented the home has never lived in this section, they said.

"Why didn't he rent them an apartment or home in his area of Lincoln?" one questioned. "Let him have them next door to him," the spokesman suggested.

One elderly man had this to say: "We settled here 20 or 30 years ago and have lived here ever since. How would you like it?"

The group also protested the "modest surveillance" which Lincoln police have kept over the area.

"We're tired of police cars," one lady said. "We didn't call them."

The Rev. Carroll Lemon of Lincoln, who is familiar with the situation, had said Monday night that the house in question had been offered for rent first to a member of the family of one of the neighbors, and that when an agreement did not materialize, the home was rented to the Negro family.

He has said that no one had "advised" the owners to rent to Negroes and that no one had been involved in the transaction except the owners and the new tenants.

'Spot Check' Promised

As for police surveillance, Lincoln Police Chief Joe T. Carroll said Wednesday night that a "spot check" would be made by a squad car normally assigned to that area "a major portion of the time."

The checking involves no additional personnel and no special assignments, he pointed out.

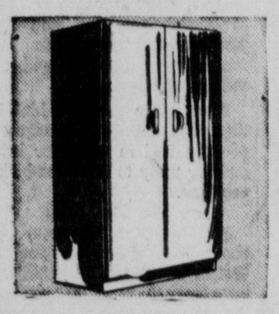

The Negro family consists of a foreman for a local firm involved in construction work, his wife and their three pre-school children.

Hill 'Satisfactory'

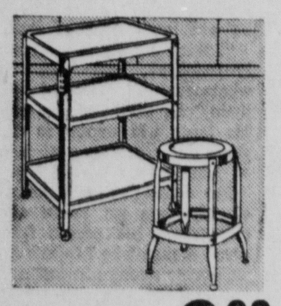

State Treasurer Ralph W. Hill, 64, who underwent cranial surgery at a hospital here Monday, was listed in satisfactory condition Wednesday evening.

Gen. LeMay Blamed For Satellite Delay

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A former director of the Office of Naval Research declared Wednesday that Gen. Curtis LeMay was responsible for blocking joint research work on an earth satellite program 12 years ago.

Dr. Harvey Hall told the Tallahassee Rotary Club that Navy researchers knew in 1946 that satellites were feasible and attempted to set up a joint program of research.

"Gen. LeMay took a very rigid point of view that this was an Air Force responsibility and he resented the Navy having anything to do with it," Hall said.

"His very attitude effectively prevented a joint program being set up. Gen. LeMay was one of the finest officers I know but in this case he made a mistake.

LeMay is now vice chief of staff of the Air Forces.

Hall left the Navy's Research Division Dec. 1 to become head of the physics department at Florida State University.

In his half-hour talk, Hall reviewed the Navy program for an earth satellite vehicle from October, 1945 to 1948 and said that research at that point confirmed earlier conclusions and "virtually assured that an experimental satellite vehicle was technologically feasible."

Because of the need for more funds than the Navy could provide, Hall said overtures were made to the Army Air Force to establish a joint program and the first of several joint meetings was held on March 7, 1946.

'Tragedy'

He said the Army, Air Force and Navy agreed that the project was worth supporting, but that the "great tragedy occurred when it went through Gen. Spaatz to LeMay."

Dr. Hall said that as a result of the failure of the joint research program to develop, the satellite flight testing program was delayed for about eight years until through separate channels the present Vanguard program was finally established.

Another factor which helped delay the satellite program, he said, was the necessity of showing military justification. This, he declared, is a "defective system."

Until May

MOSCOW (AP)—A soviet scientist said Sputnik II, carrying the remains of the space dog Laika, may stay in the skies until May.

B. V. Kukarkin, deputy chairman of the astronomical council of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, told the Tass news agency he has calculated the second earth satellite has a life span of six months. It was launched Nov. 3.

Jayne And Hubby In Florida For Brief Honeymoon

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Jayne Mansfield, still so enraptured with her new husband that she didn't even notice when an admirer snitched the tip of a feather from her hat, arrived here Wednesday for a brief Miami Beach honeymoon.

The wide-eyed actress clung as closely to Mickey Hargitay as her form-fitting Dubonnet jersey dress clung to her curves. She and Mickey moved almost obliviously through a dense crowd of autograph seekers.

Asked if the throng bothered her, the platinum blonde looked up at Hartigay and murmured happily:

"We don't see anyone but each other. But it's just wonderful of all these people to come and I wish I could say 'hello' to all of them."

Mickey and Jayne were married Monday in Portuguese Bend, Calif., and had their wedding reception Tuesday at the home of the bride's parents in Dallas, Tex. They expect to stay at Miami Beach until Saturday.

Morrison Arraigned In Car Theft Case

Paul M. Morrison, 18, of Patoka, Ind., arrested in Lincoln for alleged interstate transportation of a stolen car, was arraigned Wednesday before U. S. Commissioner C. M. Pierson.

Morrison, a former member of the Armed Forces, is charged by federal warrant with transporting a stolen car on Dec. 29 from Vincennes, Ind., to Lawrenceville, Ill.

We Are Getting The Axe

When President Eisenhower uttered his "more guns, less butter" budget message a Russia-conscious America nodded its approval and went through the motions of belt tightening.

Some of the more cautious commentators withheld decision pending a precise definition of "butter."

That definition is now coming clear.

At least four Nebraska interests are feeling pain. And there will be more.

The Eisenhower budget cut federal aid to hospitals by $45 million, claimed by critics to be severe enough to reduce Nebraska's hospital improvement program by 50 per cent.

The Army Engineers have notified power hungry Nebraskans that construction stretch-outs to save money temporarily in Missouri Basin development would deny added electric power to Nebraska for a longer period than the President indicated.

Farm leaders are protesting the Eisenhower budget's slash in farm program appropriation.

Reclamation areas are taking a bleak look at the future. There doesn't seem to be any provision for Nebraska's proposed Farwell and Ainsworth projects.

Whether it is wise to make budget reductions in these fields is less a matter of fact than of administration evaluation. None of them were close to the heart of the administration at any time. It is just unfortunate that so many of them are vital to Nebraska's welfare. It does not make the national defense effort very palatable out here regardless of how inevitably necessary it may be.

Just A Poor Product

The New York Daily Worker, hopeful at one time of being the Pravda of the United States, has suspended publication and in not very good grace.

Because it was the oracle of Communism it died insisting that it was put to death by unfair pressure—pressure on Communists in general, on newsstand dealers, on anyone who read, subscribed to, wrote for or otherwise contributed to its life.

There is no doubt that all but a very minority of Americans do not approve of Communism. There never was a time when more than 300,000 Americans of all shades from pink to red declared themselves in a national presidential election. There is also the fact that the Communist force in this country is divided into warring splinters. A combination of those facts did not leave much of a field for the Daily Worker.

But whatever field there was left it was large enough to support a publication of the acceptable sort. We feel therefore that the Daily Worker was not hounded to death. It just died of the same causes that have killed other publications where freedom of the press requires publications to do a good enough job to win their survival. The Daily Worker may have pleased its editors, but it did not satisfy its customers. The chances are it wouldn't have lasted nearly as long in Red Russia where there is no free press and where editors have to satisfy not themselves or their readers but the several men who run the whole show.

City Gets The Facts

A large and representative group of Lincoln business and professional men and women were given some very sage advice in a Chamber of Commerce noon luncheon address by Eldrige Lovelace, member of the city's planning consultant firm of Harland Bartholomew & Associates of St. Louis, Mo. The speaker's remarks were not only straightforward and to the point but extremely timely as they dealt with Lincoln's industrial expansion potential.

In addition to hardy agreement with practically everything he said, we sincerely hope that he struck a responsive chord with his audience. For if what he had to tell this community goes unheeded or is brushed aside as so much claptrap, there are unfortunate and wasteful years ahead for the community as a whole.

It will take guts to accept the words from Lovelace and turn them into production. To set up zoning laws and stick to them takes foresight and a strong will. But are we not about prepared to do this by now in view of the statement by Lovelace, an expert in his field, if you will pardon the use of that expression—that of all the zoning changes made in the present law, 90 per cent have been in the wrong direction?

Are we not prepared to accept zoning as the only hope left for protection of residential areas against business and industrial encroachment in view of the statement by Lovelace that among all the considerations of a potential new industrial development, good living conditions are of prime importance? Are we not prepared to admit that zoning and its resulting economy of municipal services offer one among a very few deterrents to the constantly rising cost of government?

Even if you are against growth or think it needless, there is still a vital place for you in zoning. It is not just a tool for the enticement of industry but serves very practically as a protection of residential areas as they now stand and maintaining within them a good home environment. It means good cultural, recreational, educational, church and other facilities. Zoning means children playing relatively free from the dangers of fast-moving traffic. It means a good place in which to live which happens to be both incidental to, if you prefer to look at it in that way, and coincidental with solid industrial growth.

Lovelace made another important point—industry will and fully expects to pay its own way. Tricky tax exemption laws such as enacted last year for industry by Nebraska's Legislature are a waste of time and money. While that is now spilled milk for Lincoln, it continues to sour and should be good food for future thought.

The sermon on planning has been preached here and elsewhere for a long time and by various people but it has failed to sink in to date in many respects. There is no guarantee that it will be any better off now but the facts are there and the words have been heard. They will either heed the words or lose the harvest.

The Tax Base Again

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The final action of the Nebraska State School Boards Association on tax matters did more to confuse than clear up matters in this area of state government. The group adopted two resolutions, one favoring a united effort toward broadening the tax base and one favoring their own particular idea of how the base should be broadened. From the action that was taken, it is impossible to say where the NSSBA will stand in any showdown on the tax issue. The confusion coming from the NSSBA convention can be added to what had already become a very complicated situation.

★

The NSSBA resolution favoring a united drive for a broadened base was cleverly worded. The resolution expressed support for other groups seeking a broadened base but it was not clear as to whether it favored any type of united drive or one united behind its own particular scheme.

Suggestions By The Dozen

This NSSBA scheme brings the total number of current proposals for broadening the tax base to three. The first proposal is the one from another education group, the Nebraska State Education Association. This proposal seeks to amend the Constitution to eliminate a clause therein which now makes it mandatory for the state to get out of the property tax field if a sales or income tax is enacted. It provides further that the Legislature shall enact a sales tax which would be distributed back to other governmental subdivisions according to the amount of their current tax levy. Since the schools have a tax levy far in excess of any other subdivision, they would get the lion's share of the sales tax.

★

The specific proposal being backed by the NSSBA calls for a combination sales and income tax and state support for education based on a rate of $75 per child in average daily attendance. A third proposal, reportedly backed by a number of unidentified other interested groups, would simply force the state into another field of taxation by forbidding the state's use of a property tax for the general fund after 1959. This proposal would merely urge state support of education but specify no amount. Certainly, the so-called united group proposal is the simpler and less controversial measure so far as the general public is concerned. It remains to be seen, however, if anything worth public support can come from the present muddle of ideas from special interest groups.

★

The city of Lincoln will not be facing any problem when its new budget year rolls around in regard to what type of tax it will levy but the amount involved could produce some headaches. Already piled up for the Council to consider are a number of personnel items that could cost substantial amounts of money. One essential item will be additional payroll expenses for more firemen. With a new fire station a certainty, the facility will have to be manned and this means more money. Before the Council right now is a request from city employes for a 40-hour week. While theoretically this would not cost any additional amount, it is doubtful if the change could be made and work out in practice at no extra cost. Any added cost here would make general salary raises more of a problem. Actually, there could probably not be both salary raises and a 40-hour week. There is a choice here, it seems, for employes themselves as well as the Council.

Higher Salaries, Shorter Hours

★

And not the least of Council concerns will be the matter of Police Department personnel. There seems to be a lack of two things within the Police Department—adequate salaries and the right sense of loyalty. This does not mean that those who leave the department are disloyal but salaries alone cannot be the only inducement for a man. Many other areas of city government are in about the same pay range as the Police Department and still do not have the personnel turnover experienced in the law-enforcement agency. This, however, is not so much a current Council problem as are salaries for the police.

Poor Reply

AEC Chairman Lewis Strauss, who has never concealed his distaste for J. Robert Oppenheimer, the physicist, lately rejected the suggestion that the case of Oppenheimer's reliability be re-opened in the possibility that he could be restored to public service in the field which so badly needs him. It was Strauss' opinion that if Oppenheimer wants vindication he should initiate the action. That is just the same as saying that whatever the new evidence may be, Oppenheimer is still persona non grata as far as Strauss is concerned. If the administration has wronged Oppenheimer to its own hurt it is the administration's business to correct the act, not Oppenheimers.

U.S. Officials Aid German Claimants

WASHINGTON — Looking both ways to make sure no reporters saw him, Doug Dillon, the State Department's able economic chief, ducked into the office of Sen. Olin Johnston of South Carolina to discuss plans for paying off Nazi industrialists whose property was seized during World War II.

Dillon was accompanied by Jacques Reinstein, director of German affairs, and R. P. White, a State Department lobbyist, who carried brief cases and also glanced around furtively. Waiting inside were the sad-eyed senator from South Carolina and his assistant, Harlan Wood.

The State Department trio outlined a plan to have American taxpayers dig into their pockets for an extra $100,000,000 to settle German claims. This would double-cross the Japanese, who have Secretary of State Dulles's solemn word that German and Japanese claims would be treated alike.

The manner in which the State Department has been pushing the return of German property, and the background of the State Department personnel handling it are significant.

No. 1 man in the State Department, John Foster Dulles, was attorney for the Wall Street bankers who poured millions of American investors' money into Germany even as Hitler was coming into power. Mr. Dulles made repeated statements assuring American investors that their money was safe.

No. 3 man in the State Department now pushing for the return of German property, Douglas Dillon, was a member of the banking firm of Dillon, Read & Co., which poured about $200,000,000 of American investors' money into Germany. Shortly after V-E Day, the head of Dillon, Read—Gen. William H. Draper, then in the Army—became head of German industrial reconstruction and appointed to his personal staff Dr. Alexander Kreuter, a former Nazi and former Dillon, Read representative in Germany.

It has been the consistent policy of many of these bankers to bring about the return of German property, and some of them have been in strategic positions to help do it.

☆ ☆ ☆

JOHNSTON BALKS

The proposal for rewarding German property owners at the expense of American taxpayers which Ambassador Dillon outlined to Senator Johnston was too much even for Johnston. The South Carolina senator has been most sympathetic to German lobbyists, but even he rebelled at taking money from American taxpayers to reimburse the Germans.

Wood suggested that former Attorney General Herb Brownell, who opposed paying indemnity to our former enemies, probably suggested the direct appropriation as an "obstructive tactic" to keep Congress from passing any legislation at all.

In the end, Johnston and Dillon turned over to their assistants the task of ironing out details. They agreed to proceed as quietly as possible, so their plan to pay off the German munitions makers won't run into interference "from interested individuals or the press."

Johnson Reaches For Leadership

WASHINGTON — The Senate Preparedness Subcommittee will conclude its hearings this week, having listened to scientists, the military, Defense Department chiefs and defense contractors. The problem then confronting Subcommittee Chairman Lyndon B. Johnson is to find ways and means of coming out of the hearings with an issue he can use.

Johnson is not satisfied with what President Eisenhower has done or has now proposed in the new budget and special message. The subcommittee has piled up masses of material from which an attack and a remedial program can be drawn.

But the attack must be so phrased that it will not draw a heavy crossfire centering on the long inattention of Congress to the way things were going. The subcommittee is particularly vulnerable, as it has been in existence eight years, with Johnson as chairman the whole time.

A forgive-and-forget attitude toward the past is, therefore, indicated for the senator from Texas. It might not appeal to another subcommittee member, Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri, who has an impressive record of prescience in the defense field.

☆ ☆ ☆

A distinct tension in fact exists already between Johnson, who is trying so hard to shape the defense issue to his own specifications, and Symington, who got there first, though not with the mostest. Signs of it easily could appear when the subcommittee prepares its position.

Johnson has still another important adjustment to make in the positions he took in his personal state of the union message. His demand that the United States achieve military control of outer space was coolly received in many quarters. It was completely contradicted by the President in his letter this week to Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin.

The President put at the head of his disarmament proposals an agreement to keep all kinds of war, hot or cold, out of outer space. "Let us this time and in time make the right choice, the peaceful choice," the President pleaded.

☆ ☆ ☆

Politicians generally give the President all the best of it in the matter of these differing approaches. They believe that Americans and their allies wholly prefer, and not just as a matter of propaganda, a negotiated peace for outer space rather than anything suggesting military domination.

With his acute political sensitivity, Johnson can be expected to plot a course which takes these matters into account. His search for a program of wide appeal to senators will not be easy, as he is dealing this year with an extremely restive body which is going to play by ear much more than in the recent past.

One subcommittee project is certain of adoption. It is a system of progress reports on what happens to actions promised and to the service witnesses who have been encouraged to speak their minds so freely to the Congress.

BOB CONSIDINE

Pittsburgh A Transformed City

PITTSBURGH — Pittsburghers are becoming the Texans of this part of the world. The big talk is warranted, just as it is in the Lone Star state.

This city has changed more than any city in America. It was dying on its feet nearly a decade ago when David Lawrence became mayor. Today it is racing to new records on those same feet, and the people are enormously pleased and proud.

There was talk a decade ago that the Mellons would move their colossal wealth elsewhere. They and lesser clans and companies indigenous to the local soil remained, many of them at the urging of Lawrence, and the city's golden age was under way.

Pittsburgh got rid of its smoke, a feat comparable to Chicago's triumph over its wind. It meant persuading adjacent industry to stop using soft coal, right in the soft coal district. Air pollution had been such, for a century and more, that chest surgeons were said to be able to tell if a patient had ever lived here, and for how long.

The city's flood control program succeeded in eliminating a dreaded annual scourge from the twin lashes of the Allegheny and Monongahela. New roads were built, new bridges took shape, two great holes are being blasted through the huge rock that lies between the city and the visitor entering it from the airport. The airport, of course, is one of the finest in the world.

☆ ☆ ☆

The iron ball swung, the shovels scooped, and from the clear space rose topless skyscrapers of aluminum and stainless steel. Today, the "Golden Triangle" is something downright stunning to behold, especially as your car comes around a high turn and you look down into the city as if from a hovering helicopter.

A big insurance company is completing a complex of metal-fronted office buildings at the gateway to the city proper. Some of the energy that makes their rooms glow with light comes from the splitting of atoms in the huge reactor which the Westinghouse people and the Atomic Energy Commission built at nearby Shippingport for Duquesne Light and Power.

Pittsburgh, so recently drab and shrouded in its own fumes, has become the leader of all U.S. cities in the use of the power which one day will replace coal and oil to a vast degree.

One day, maybe after the city's bicentennial celebrations start next Thanksgiving, somebody will start the building of the 50,000-seat civic stadium. Art Rooney could use it for his Steelers, particularly when the Browns and Lions are in town.

It has been a $2,000,000,000 venture, which may no longer sound astronomical in these days of $74,000,000,000 federal budgets. But it's a heck of a lot of money for a town of 677,800 people to spend.

MAN'S BEST FRIEND

A Volunteer For Space Travel

By HAL HASSELBALCH
Star Staff Writer

Although Woni's maternal instincts are no doubt as great as those of any dog, she will be happy to see the last of her four pups either sold or weaned away from her.

Why? Because Woni is crazy about flying. Since she undertook the burdens of motherhood several weeks ago, seeing her master leave to fly has been pure torture.

Woni (pronounced Von-e) started her career aloft early. Born in Germany, she was bought by Mrs. Calvin Cragun soon after she and Major Cragun were married in Germany in 1956. Aboard her master's planes she flew from Berlin to Frankfort and from there to England.

From a base in England, Woni took many trips out of England and back. Once she went to Goose Bay, Labrador. Finally she flew to the United States from England.

☆ ☆ ☆

Had it not been for maternal interferences Woni might have been the first dog to fly over the North Pole. Maj. Cragun had worked out a plan whereby Woni was to be flown from Lincoln to Greenland where she would meet him, and he was planning to take her on one of his frequent flights over the pole.

But as we said, Woni was tied down at home at the time.

In all, Maj. Cragun estimates Woni has logged about 100 hours of flying time.

Woni is truly the cosmopolitan dog one would expect her to be from all her traveling. She is bilingual. Being German-born, as is Mrs. Cragun, Woni takes many of her commands in German, but she also responds to directions in English.

Mrs. Cragun tells of a comedy in which she and Woni were involved, this time aboard a train. Mrs. Cragun had not had Woni very long when she had to travel from Berlin to Frankfort. She was not eager to place Woni in the baggage car so she waited for a late train hoping the train officials would not want to open the car due to the hour.

(Star Staff Photo)

MRS. CRAGUN AND WONI'S FAMILY
. . . no "baggage car ahead" for her . . .

The conductor spotted the dog as she stepped aboard the train. Mrs. Cragun explained she would like to keep the dog with her in her Pullman berth. He consented but admonished her, "All right, but don't tell the porter. He hates dogs."

Next she encountered the porter. He found the dog. She explained the situation. "All right," he said, "the dog can stay, but don't tell the conductor. He hates dogs."

Next the military police discovered the contraband. Mrs. Cragun was sure the jig was up this time. But she offered her explanation. "All right," the M.P.s said, "It is o.k. with us. However, don't tell the conductor or the porter. They hate dogs."

Woni still has not seen the inside of a baggage car.

Though grounded temporarily Woni does not sulk about the situation. She spends her days playing games with the family's parakeet. They have a set game whereby the dog chases the bird from room to room, neither seriously risking life or limb in the chases.

Occasionally she tangles with Maj. Cragun's 13-year-old son, Lamont, when he is not busy building model rockets and satellites. So far Lamont seems to be the only one in the family interested in satellites, but after so much of this earth-bound flight, who knows, may be Woni will develop a hankering for the outer spaces so as not to be outdone by any Russian counterpart.

A Free Country

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: It amazes me no end how taxpayers can feel that they individually pay all city and state employes' salaries (I refer to the letter in the January 6 Star, "Trade At Home," signed by "H. L. T."). By talking to some people, you would think that they and they alone pay the President's, governor's, and congressmen's salaries.

It also amazes me how some persons can feel that after their tax money is paid in salaries to public servants, it is still their right to dictate as to how it should be spent. In my opinion, if a man works for the city, state, or government, his salary is for him to do with as he pleases. He works for it the same as if he were working for a private business. Besides, I believe the United States is still referred to as a free country, Mr. "H.L.T."

Science And God

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: A reader has stated that it is a proven scientific fact that the human mind and body can function healthily and happily without a belief in God. When was this proven? I had not learned that they had proven that God does not exist, for to say that our minds and bodies can get along without a belief in Him is to question His very existence. Judging from the way they have had to alter their past "proven facts," I would say that on the morrow they will disprove the above.

The Apostle Paul must have been a greater scientist than those of today for he declared that God could be found "if they are willing to find Him, for He is not far from every one of us; for in Him we live, and move and have our being . . . He is before all things, and by Him all things consist."

Science has recently discovered more knowledge about this great "energy" or "spiritual" energy, as some call it, behind the great universe, yet this basic truth was given to men by God ages ago. But science does not know Him, has not found Him and therefore some few say He does not exist.

Sir Oliver Lodge refers to Him as "a power, a mind, a being, or beings, entirely out of our sphere, entirely beyond our scientific ken . . . a being or beings of which science has no knowledge."

When man learns to discipline himself, loves God with all his heart and keeps His commandments, then real joy and true happiness will come. He can be found and He can be known.

Trouble Ahead?

Beatrice, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Why shouldn't our friends in Europe be alarmed and want to try to get together with the leader of all Russians? England, as with our carriers, is a sitting duck and could be blasted to oblivion at Russia's pleasure. There is a little good in all men and there could be here. Possibly Russia's leader might see the error of his ways; anyway, there is no harm in trying. His armies could overrun the other countries—his subs and bombs would make short work of our eastern fleet — Red China with her build-up since Korea could cause no end of trouble—the Pentagon with all its jealousies and rivalries would be better off in the sea.

Until we get a leader at the helm who can lead and not depend on others, we are in for trouble. In the matter of exploring outer space and trips to the moon, neither side will benefit. There will just be needless expense. The Pentagon with its foolish ideas has caused millions more in needless expense, and no telling how many soldiers' lives.

Railroad Service

Inglewood, Calif.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Every Nebraska town, village and hamlet, no matter how small, with few exceptions boasts agriculture as its lifeline, but a close second is the railroad.

With many of these carriers requesting that their passenger service be abandoned along hundreds of miles of track, let us take note of the many reasons why this service must continue.

Our communities face some kind of devastation as these carriers spend a huge proportion of income receipts in taxes, with large amounts given to the towns the lines serve.

Many people have no other transportation. Those who do are otherwise forced to use their automobiles, crowding our highways even more.

Often mail is delayed.

Business revenue falls off.

Although exact figures are not available, these curtailments have put thousands out of work. This has caused many to leave their towns and live elsewhere; therefore said settlements shrink in size and oftentimes deteriorate. Nebraska once had several good-sized towns, but now as a result, only foundations of the many buildings and homes can be seen.

Officials also point out that new road surfaces have tended to drive many away from rail transit.

Surely we must continue operating passenger service between Crete and Talmage. Since close of the depot at Davey has been approved, the building should be given to the state, as it is one of Lancaster County's oldest landmarks.

Missile Boss Says U.S. Could Have Spy-In-Sky Satellite By Spring Of '59

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force missile boss says that by the spring of next year this country could have a spy-in-the-sky satellite, able to circle the earth and return safely with photographs and other data.

This estimate of U.S. capabilities was given by Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, head of the Air Force ballistic missile division, in much-censored testimony released by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee.

This was but one of a variety of space age projects which the general discussed. Others included round trip flights to the moon by man and "a satellite that would sit in one place with relation to the earth."

Schriever said that only recently the Air Force got approval to try to develop satellites for "an advanced reconnaissance system."

In response to questions from Sen. Symington (D-Mo), a member of the subcommittee which is investigating missile and satellite programs, the general said:

"I think that we could have a reconnaissance capability, using the Thor Booster, by the spring of next year with a recoverable capsule."

The Thor is the 1,500-mile range ballistic missile now being developed by the Air Force. The missile has undergone several successful test firings.

Schriever also said the air force now has equipment able to put an instrumented satellite into orbit around the earth later this year. He said such a development could come "as early as July, but more likely about October." He said the booster rocket for the Thor would be used.

By 1965 or 1970, he said, the United States could have manned satellites that could carry out "all space missions."

"We can start work on these things now," Schriever told the Senate subcommittee last week. His sworn testimony has been made available to newsmen with military secrets screened out.

He said a half billion dollar investment on Air Force missiles already provides "the original investment for preliminary projects on space flight."

Schriever apparently displayed charts and designs at the closed-door session as he said:

"These ballistic missiles you see here, and what they represent in terms of resources, facilities, know-how, people—Is the platform for going into space, not only the boosters but the guidance, the re-entry, all parts of it."

Schriever said the Thor power plant could send up a satellite this year and, with stronger boosters or second and third stages, could hit the moon.

His claim that the Air Force could put up a satellite in suspension above the earth puzzled Symington, a former Air Force secretary.

High Velocity

"What holds it up there?" Symington asked.

"It is going at a very high velocity at very, very high altitudes, so that actually it is rotating with the earth and is always in the same location," Schriever explained.

"I see it," Symington replied. "I get it."

"With this same vehicle we can send an instrumented package around the moon and return in (time deleted)," Schriever continued.

He said Air Force engines for Atlas and Titan, planned intercontinental missiles, could be used for "thinking about manned re-entry flights in (deleted)".

Eventually he said they "could project a man around the moon."

Not Sufficient

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Navy's civilian air chief has told Congress that funds for Navy research in the new budget are "not sufficient" and total less than he requested a year ago.

In testimony released by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, Garrison Norton, assistant secretary of the Navy for air, voiced a hope the fiscal 1959 budget item would be given a "new look" but said there is no indication that will happen.

Norton testified that last year he asked for 666 million dollars for Navy research and got 505 millions. This included funds for the Navy's missile-carrying Polaris nuclear submarine project. He testified that in the new budget the research total is 641 million dollars.

Seaplane Halted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high Navy officer has told senators a nuclear-powered seaplane could have been built had the Navy been allowed to go ahead with it.

Adm. John T. Hayward, assistant chief of naval operations for research and development, made the statement in secret testimony released by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee. The record shows he was backed up by Sen. Jackson (D-Wash).

Garrison Norton, assistant secretary of the Navy told the subcommittee former Secretary of Defense Wilson held up the seven million dollars voted by Congress for study of the atomic-powered plane.

EMERGENCY DEFENSE BILL PASSES

Swift And Unanimous Approval Voted By Lower House

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $549,670,000 bill to improve the nation's defenses against missile attack was swiftly and unanimously passed by the House Wednesday.

The roll call vote, taken after brief debate, was 374-0.

Inserted in the measure before the final vote was an amendment giving Secretary of Defense McElroy authority to set up the advanced research projects agency he and President Eisenhower have proposed.

There is some doubt that present law would permit McElroy to create the agency, which would do initial development work on projects that only a few months ago seemed long in the future—space vehicles and weapons and anti-missile missiles.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House armed services committee urged swift action on the bill. The House Rules Committee cleared the way during the morning for a vote.

Vinson said during debate that the measure carries authority to expand U.S. warning systems, build a third launching base for the country's own intercontinental missiles and disperse aircraft of the Strategic Air Command more effectively.

The half-billion-dollar defense authorization bill is part of the $1,260,000,000 Eisenhower has asked Congress to add to the defense budget for the current fiscal year.

Vinson disclosed that SAC is to be dispersed soon over 33 different bases in this country with not more than one squadron of 15 planes to each base. Originally SAC had 11 home bases. The bill provides for the dispersal of six squadrons, he said.

9 Killed As Top Floor Of Hotel Drops

ENNIS, Ireland (AP)—The floor of a crowded second story hotel room collapsed during an auction sale Wednesday, killing nine persons. About 30 were injured, 10 seriously.

The floor sagged as 160 persons assembled for the start of the afternoon bidding. There was a loud crack of splintering timber and the floor collapsed.

Scores of persons were pitched into a tangled heap of rubble. Heavy furniture being auctioned tumbled down on the victims.

Rescuers dug through the debris to reach screaming women and children. Among the dead were four women and a 12-year-old boy. One of the dead women was the mother of six children.

The hotel, Carmody's, is one of the best known in Ireland. Built in 1870, the hotel was recently sold and the auction was held to dispose of its furniture and equipment.

$190,000 Asked For 'Watchdogs'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rules Committee Wednesday approved its 1958 watchdogging of the nation's military programs.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), is engaged in an investigation of the missiles and satellite programs.

The Rules Committee's action, announced after a closed door meeting, sends the proposed appropriation to the Senate for consideration.

Chaplin's Co-Star Edna Purviance Dies At Age 61

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Edna Purviance, 61, Charlie Chaplin's golden-haired leading lady in his early film comedies died at Motion Picture Country Hospital following a long illness.

She came to California during the silent film days to study piano.

"I met Mr. Chaplin through a mutual friend," she once recalled, "and he asked me if I wanted to act in his pictures. I laughed at the idea, but I agreed to try it .... I learned everything I know about acting from Mr. Chaplin."

She was the simple little girl who befriended the baggy-pants vagabond in his early two-reelers and later starred with him. She retired in the early '20s, but Chaplin kept her on his studio payroll until he ceased his operations here four years ago.

Admiral Hits Fund Control On Missiles

DETROIT (AP) — Rear Admiral F. S. Withington said Wednesday that some times he feels he is not chief of the Navy's Bureau of Ordnance "but rather that some clerk in the Budget Bureau is."

Withington made the remark at a news conference here when asked what he considered his biggest problem in his job of developing and building new missiles for the Navy.

"It is not money," he said, "but control of the money. We don't see any of it until we have justified every item."

Criticizing red tape in the Budget Bureau, Withington said the bureau impounded money appropriated by Congress and in some instances wouldn't turn it loose until the last day of the year. He said this interfered with the continuity of the missile program. He said valuable time had been lost because workers on some projects had to be laid off and then rehired because money was held up.

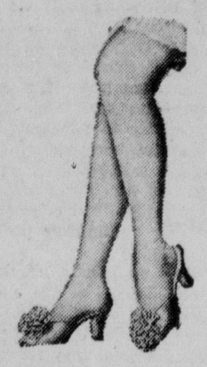

In Washington, a Budget Bureau spokesman said the recent hold-up of military funds was a joint decision made at the highest level.

EX-NAVY SECRETARY SUGGESTS FIRING MOST PENTAGON CIVILIANS

By ROSE McKEE

WASHINGTON (INS) — Former Navy Secretary Dan Kimball said Wednesday he would fire three-fourths of the civilians in the Pentagon "perhaps 90 per cent" but opposes tampering with the Joint Chiefs of Staff set-up.

The Truman administration official told the Senate preparedness subcommittee that "you don't need a civilian looking over the shoulder of every man in uniform" to get the defense job done.

Testifying in the missiles probe, Kimball said that Pentagon decisions would come faster if the layers of civilian bosses were removed.

'Clear Policy From Ike'

Earlier, Robert E. Gross, board chairman of Lockheed Aircraft Corp., testifed that the nation's most urgent need is for a "firm, clear cut policy of national defense that must stem" from President Eisenhower.

Gross, whose firm holds the prime contract for the Navy's Polaris, said defense dollars would buy more if Mr. Eisenhower corrected the "alarming lack" of a clear plan.

The Lockheed official said he would advocate a tax increase to pay a greater defense bill if the Pentagon's spending system were simplified.

Opposed Shakeup

Lawrence A. Hyland, vice president of Hughes Aircraft Co., Culver City, Calif., also opposed a Pentagon shake-up that would turn "the house upside down."

He recommended adding a scientist to the Joint Chiefs of Staff with voting power and giving the chairman three votes so that he could settle disputes.

Meanwhile, Chairman Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) appointed Sens. John Stennis (D-Miss) and Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass) to scrutinize the list of witnesses still to be heard with the idea of bringing the inquiry to an "orderly conclusion."

Lack The Ability

Kimball, now president of Aerojet which has contracts for the nuclear propulsion system of the long-range Titan missile and the Polaris, said the Pentagon has "too many layers of civilians with veto power but who appear to lack the ability to say something should be done."

Both Kimball and Gross called for decisions now to speed eventual production of ballistic missiles.

Tanker Crew Cited For Saving Bomber

The crew of the KC-97 air refueling tanker commanded by Capt. Robert P. Gould of Toledo, Ohio, has been nominated for an Air Force "Well Done" award.

Capt. Gould's crew from Lincoln Air Force Base is credited with aiding a crippled B-47. The tanker contacted the bomber 35 minutes after starting its engines. At the time of contact the troubled B-47 had only 15 minutes of fuel.

The "Well Done" award is presented monthly to personnel who have accomplished an outstanding feat in the field of flying safety.

Redeemer Lutheran To Dedicate Soon

Announcement of the near completion and approaching dedication on Feb. 9 of the enlarged church building highlighted the annual meeting of Redeemer Lutheran Church.

The expansion program, begun early last year, will increase the seating capacity to nearly 800 worshippers.

A budget of $46,950 was adopted for 1958. Of this amount, $12,350 will be for the church mission program.

Membership Up

During 1957, there was an increase of 185 baptized members, bringing the current number to 1266, and an increase of 107 communicant members, bringing the total to 748. Offerings during the period reached more than $70,000, exclusive of organizations, of which $10,087 was for the mission program of the church at large.

Youth, 9, Leaves Hospital After 6½-Month Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — Nine-year-old Bobby Spierer Wednesday began a comeback that relatively few lads of his age have ever had to undertake. He went home after 6½ months in a hospital and 80 days in a coma.

Bobby suffered a stroke last Aug. 2. It had been preceded by a bicycle accident in which he injured his head.

During the 80 days he was in a coma, doctors all but despaired for his life.

Even Wednesday, his left arm and leg are useless. But there is hope that further treatment may restore them to normal. That's part of the comeback battle ahead.

Mrs. Carpenter Services Friday

The funeral of Mrs. Etta Carpenter of 1616 G, will be 1 p.m. Friday at Roper & Sons.

Dr. C. Vin White will officiate. Burial will be in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Omaha.

Mrs. Carpenter

Mrs. Carpenter, who died Tuesday, had lived in Lincoln 57 years. Born in York, she had lived in Friend, Crete and Omaha.

She was a member and past president of Chapter DN of PEO and a member of First Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are her daughter, Norma of Lincoln and sister, Mrs. George Paddock of Kansas City, Mo.

Board Names Hahn

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP) — Andy Hahn has been named to succeed Percy Smith as chairman of the Lincoln County Board.

Gvido Grinbergs, 14 Injured In Accident

Fourteen-year-old Gvido Grinbergs of 2781 Alpha suffered head cuts Wednesday morning when the car in which he was riding ran into a power pole on 20th between Lake and Harrison, police said.

Driver of the car, police reported, was Mrs. Naema Grinbergs, 34, also of 2781 Aalpha. Young Grinbergs was treated at a local hospital and later released. Mrs. Grinbergs told police she attempted to avoid a cat or dog which ran across in front of her car before it skidded into the pole.

In the chilly Mexican morning, we tourists come down to the dining room and line up our little pills all in a row.

The brown flat pills ward off the Aztec stomach; the little yellow antibiotics are for general principles; the fat, red, svitamins are a l i n e-backer.

Ailments are a matter of great interest. We know more than the Maya Clinic.

"Don't drink the water or anything with ice in it. And watch out for fresh vegetables. But if you DO get it, take one of these every four hours. Marvelous!"

☆ ☆ ☆

Personally, I think it is a matter of luck. Tourists have been bragging about their stomachs since Cortez marched into Tenochtitlan and renamed it Mexico City. The tourist stomach is sometimes known as "Montezuma's revenge."

The party of the Revolution has chosen Adolfo Lopez Mateos as presidential candidate. This is just the same as being elected. The opposition party pulls about as many votes as the Prohibition Party in the States.

Nonetheless, the Party makes a great election drive.

The candidate is stumping the nearby country. And on every village wall his name is splashed in letters.

The opposition candidate has announced his platform.

"Make the peso equal to the dollar and we will have no problems."

The peso now runs 12.50 to the dollar. The candidate did not say how he would achive this equality. But it is a great idea.

On the wall of your hotel room is a framed blue sign issued by the Tourist Department. It tells exactly what the Department allows the hotel to charge for this room.

Prices may not be raised without permission of the Department.

Rising prices, though, push the rates upward. About $10 to $16 seems to be the average in the better Mexico City hotels. About $1.50 more if it is sold double.

No matter how elegant the hotel, the doorknobs nearly always pinch your thumb. They engineer them too close to the jamb.

☆

I see no signs of the earthquake that shook the city a few months ago.

Mexico City for the past five years has looked like it was hit by an earthquake. Old buildings are coming down and glass skyscrapers go up into the blue Mexican sky.

They go up slowly. Across the street I have been watching a crew of wreckers. There are 15 of them. Only two are loosening bricks. The rest are looking over the morning tourist parade.

When a brick falls, the workmen watch it until it hits the ground. They discuss the matter—possibly its aerodynamics and whether it fell gracefully. They lean on their picks. By and by, they swing on another brick.

☆

Bought 70 pesos worth of tickets on the lottery. The winning number pays one million pesos. There are three government lotteries each week. During the holiday seasons, a few extra are thrown in.

I bought number 23823. The winning number was 23923!

The numbers are in an enormous list of varous size winners, printed in the newspapers. There are so many, they are printed in small type. Smudgy, too.

I read the list in the dim light of the Restaurante Rincon de Goya. In that light and with my optimism, the 9 looked like an 8. I nearly died. I tried lighting it up with my cigarette lighter. The waiter could not find a flashlight. The whole restaurant went crazy.

Finally we got a light and somebody with good eyes.

I have been taking pills ever since. And not because I drank the water or ate fresh vegetables, I am a sick man.

INTERSECTION SIGN COST MAY AVERAGE $25,000

. . . For Interstate Highway In Nebraska

The cost of signs for each intersection on the Interstate Highway in Nebraska may well average $25,000, a State Highway Department official said Wednesday.

There is no positive way of knowing yet the total cost for the full route in this state, since not all the route has been approved yet, the spokesman said.

Placing the signs on a major cloverleaf would cost from $25,000 to $30,000, he said.

Signs for a simple "T" intersection, where a county road intersects and ends with the Interstate, are estimated to cost $4,000 to $5,000.

To $40,000

Signs for a more complicated directional intersection would come to $35,000 to $40,000.

The federal government will pay 90 per cent of the cost of erecting the signs, some of which will be self-illuminating, while others will have reflectorized backgrounds.

The American Assn. of Highway Officials will have the final say as to the kind of signs used, standardizing them for the whole Interstate system.

Americans have had bottled carbonated soft drinks for the past 150 years.

OTOE DISTRICT APPEALS MERGER RULING

Otoe County School District 44 Wednesday appealed to the State Supreme Court an Otoe District Court decision setting aside a school district merger order.

Before the District Court decision was made, the appeal said, 55 per cent of the legal voters of District 23 had signed petitions asking that nine of their school districts be merged with District 44.

The appeal contends the District Court overruled the county school superintendent's order to advance with the merger because the petitions, which J. C. and Lydia Crounse had not signed, did not carry names of 55 per cent of the legal voters.

Not On List

But the appeal claims that the Crounses' names were on neither the petitions nor the school district assessment lists because "the real estate upon which the Crounses live was not assessed in District 23, but had been assessed in District 62 for many years."

The appeal contended the Crounses had not filed a personal property return for 1956 and did not file such a return until after the county school superintendent had made his merger order.

If the high court approves the District Court decision, the appeal said, it would be the same "as allowing individuals who had not registered or voted at an election to come in after the election is over, register, and change the results of the election."

Huge U.S. Agency Lincolnite Heads Makes Tiny Loan

WASHINGTON — The Export-Import Bank, overseas lending arm of the U.S. Treasury, lent $550 to a company in Georgia to permit the export of a disk harrow to Brazil.

Samuel C. Waugh of Lincoln, Neb. president of the bank, said the deal, the smallest in the bank's 23-year history, showed that even the smallest exporter or overseas buyer could gain the ear of the bank's loan officers.

In contrast, during the last five months, the bank lent $60,000,000 to Colombia to refinance purchases from the U.S., $17,500,000 to the Cuban Telephone Company for expansion and $16,000,000 to a Mexican steel plant for expansion of plant and equipment.

Plan June Wedding

MISS SHARON AIRY AND FIANCE

Of interest to campus circles this morning is the announcement of the betrothal and approaching marriage of Miss Sharon Airy to Larry Naviaux, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sladky of Lexington, being made by the bride-elect's parents, Mrs. Vern Miller of Grand Island and John Airy of Albuquerque, N. M.

The wedding will be an event of June.

A junior at the University of Nebraska, Miss Airy is a member of Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Naviaux is also a junior at the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity, Phi Epsilon Kappa, physical education honorary, and the varsity football team.

BRIDES

Entertaining on Friday, Jan. 17, in honor of Miss Patricia Kraft, who will become the bride of Lt. Robert F. Titzer on Saturday, Feb. 1, will be Mrs. David Haney. The linen shower and dessert supper is to be held at the Haney home in Omaha, and eight guests, former Duchesne classmates of the bride-to-be, have been invited for the evening.

Miss Phyllis Straub and Mrs. Max Straub will be hostesses to guests on Saturday, Jan. 18, when they entertain for Miss Kraft. During the afternoon, a personal shower will be presented to the bride-elect.

Among other recent courtesies for Miss Kraft was the miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Anna Crowley, Mrs. Fred Gaede, Miss Helene Gaede and Mrs. Roger Bottorff on Saturday, Jan. 11, and the party for which Mrs. H. A. Walenta and Mrs. Obert Sundet were hostesses on Wednesday evening, Jan. 8.

The bride-elect has named Miss Margaret Titzer as her maid of honor, and the bridesmaid will be Miss Marilyn Titzer. Both are sisters of the bridegroom-elect and reside in Evansville, Ind.

Serving Lt. Titzer as best man will be Lt. Peter Hillenbrand, and Lt. Donald Titzer, brother of the bridegroom, Capt. James Humphrey and James Mueller of Eaton, Colo., will seat the guests.

Announcing wedding plans for late February is Miss Alta Bierhaus, whose marriage to Boyd Henk will be an event of Friday, Feb. 28.

The ceremony will be solemnized at 7:30 o'clock in the evening at St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church in Western.

Mrs. Arthur Madison of Campbell will attend her sister as matron of honor, and serving his brother as best man will be Ronnie Henk.

In Our LRB The Future Is Secure

WE'VE been busy jotting down things in our little red book—interesting events that will make good reading at some future date—These little notations involve lucky people who will be off and away to Europe—others who soon will leave for a West Indies cruise—plus a romantic angle or two—and this and that.

And now that the future is secure in our LRB, we'll take up current matters—such as guests—

* * *

UNDERSTAND that Mrs. Richard Duling and her young daughter, Kathy, will be leaving for Omaha on Saturday after spending several days as the house guests of Lt. Duling's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Duling.

Lt. and Mrs. Duling and their daughter came from San Diego, where Lt. Duling is stationed with the navy, to spend the holidays with Mrs. Duling's family in Omaha—and Mr. and Mrs. Duling. The navy officer returned to San Diego immediately following the holidays, leaving Mrs. Duling and Kathy in Nebraska for a longer visit with the two families.

* * *

FROM Cheyenne, Wyo., this morning comes a Bassinet Club communique which tells of the arrival of a Beta Theta Pi legacy, John C. Pickett, II, on Wednesday, Jan. 15. John C.'s parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Pickett, and his mother is the former Helen Weir, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Weir — and Alpha Phi at Nebraska. Judge and Mrs. John C. Pickett of Cheyenne are the paternal grandparents.

Mrs. Weir plans to meet her new grandson early in February when she goes to Cheyenne to help her son-in-law and daughter and their baby move to Laramie where Mr. Pickett will complete his work at the University of Wyoming College of Law.

* * *

ARIZONA seems to be much in the news this morning—Just learned that Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Weaver left last Sunday for Tucson where they will have a winter holiday—and taking off next Sunday for Tucson will be Mr. and Mrs. Earl Carter.

* * *

BUT between last Sunday and next Sunday comes Thursday—the day Mr. and Mrs. Larry Becker leave for Arizona where they will divide their time between Tucson and Phoenix.

* * *

PLANE-ing off today for Abilene, Tex., will be Mrs. Louis DuTeau and her young son, Al. Mrs. DuTeau and her son will be the house guests of Mrs. Tom Tobin (Donna Borgaard), and also will visit Lt. and Mrs. Murry Backhaus (Dixie Borgaard) who also reside in Abilene. Lt. Tobin, incidentally, is on TDY at this time.

Early in February Mrs. DuTeau and her son will join Mrs. DuTeau's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Perry, in Shreveport, La., from where the travelers will motor to Treasure Island, Fla.

* * *

IF ANYONE wishes to know the whereabouts of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Beck—after this weekend—we can furnish the information. The Becks, we hear, have been longing for suburban life—and all of a sudden a day or so ago they sold their house—with one stipulation. They had to be out of it by next Monday. So—the Becks scurried here and there in the suburban areas looking for a house, and finally found a brand new one that delighted them—in Martell.

Officer Speaks On Youth Topic

The members of Fidelia Lyceum met for dinner at the Hotel Capital on Tuesday, and in charge of the evening's arrangements were Miss Blanche Creamer and Miss Ena M. Lind.

Speaker for the evening was Lt. Gail L. Gade, juvenile officer of the Lincoln police department, whose topic was "Problems With Youth."

PTA Board Will Meet

The members of the board of Merle Beattie PTA will meet at 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning in the teachers lounge of the school. Mrs. W. P. May, president, will conduct the meeting.

January Wedding

At a double ring ceremony solemnized on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 12, Miss Mary Lu Lundstedt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lundstedt of North Loup, became the bride of Charles T. Lewis, son of Mrs. William Bishop of Sioux City, Ia., and of Charles M. Lewis of Lincoln. White and red carnations appointed the altar of the Methodist Church in North Loup for the service, which was read by the Rev. Clarence W. Buehler, and the wedding music was played by Miss Judy Sheldon, organist. Miss Sheldon also accompanied Mrs. Edward Hudson and the Rev. Mr. Buehler, the vocal soloists.

The matron of honor and her sister-in-law's only attendant was Mrs. Leora Lundstedt.

Charles Lundstedt served Mr. Lewis as best man, and seating the guests were Robert Lundstedt and Dean Lundstedt.

The bride wore for her wedding a gown of white Alencon lace and tulle over satin. Long, fitted sleeves and a Sabrina neckline accented the lace bodice, and the lace was repeated in a wide front panel to trim the full skirt of tulle. A tiara jeweled with pearls held her illusion veil, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with a nosegay of red roses frilled with tulle.

A reception was held in the church parlors.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will make their home in Lincoln.

Dear Abby . . .

All Bases Covered

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 44 years old, well-fixed financially and would like to get married. I would like to meet a man about my age who enjoys going to church. I belong to the First Methodist Church, Blessed Angels Catholic Church and the Mount Zion Jewish Temple. I also attend the Christian Science Church regularly but do take aspirin occasionally. Please help me find a man of good character who is interested in marriage and belongs to any or all of the above-mentioned churches.

IDA J.

DEAR IDA: It looks like you've got all the bases covered. I cannot understand how you can belong to ALL the above mentioned churches. To find a good church-going gentleman, better have a talk with any one of your clergymen.

DEAR ABBY: I sure get a kick out of that lady's letter who complained because when she entered a store she was "pounced on" by the clerks who wanted to help her. Where was she shopping anyway? I get worn out shopping because I wait half an hour to get waited on, and then the clerk disappears and I have to hunt her up and beg her to take my money and give me my purchase. Boy, it sure takes all kinds of people, Abby!

TIRED SHOPPER

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 years old and go baby-sitting quite often. When I am asked what I charge, I tell them, "Fifty cents an hour or whatever you want to pay me." I never get more than two dollars a night no matter how long I stay and I don't like to be taken advantage of. All my friends get fifty cents an hour and all they can eat. How can I get paid more?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: If you agree to accept "anything they care to pay you" . . . you can't complain if they give you two dollars a night. But if you feel "taken advantage of" . . . next time name a set fee.

DEAR ABBY: What do you say to people who live over you in an apartment who have no rugs on their floors? Can you imagine the noise it makes when they drag their chairs? When they walk around up there it sounds like a gang of horses. When they had a party, plaster fell from the ceiling onto our bed. I don't want to be called an old grouch, but isn't there some way we can put a stop to it?

THE PEOPLE DOWNSTAIRS

DEAR PEOPLE: You could go up in a friendly way and ask for their co-operation. If they are unreasonable, talk to your landlord about it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "OTHER SIDE OF THE TRACKS": Don't be ridiculous! When the train comes through—get on it!

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

The Star In Suburbia

PARK VALLEY HEIGHTS

Park Valley Heights is growing by leaps and bounds, and what fun we are having making acquaintances with newcomers to the area. It was quite recently—on Thanksgiving Day to be exact—when Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Leigh and their three-year-old daughter, Diane, settled in their home at 840 North 58th Street. The Leigh threesome moved to Lincoln from Phoenix, Ariz., two years ago and resided at a trailer court until completion of their new suburb home.

On the entertainment agenda this week is the affair planned for Friday which will be a dessert supper and canasta party given by Mrs. Lewis Holland. Invitations for the neighborhood affair have been extended to Mrs. Jack Herbert, Mrs. Glen Herbert, Mrs. Bob White, Mrs. Kenneth Alles, Mrs. Dick Robertson, Mrs. Bob Gould and Mrs. Don Bangert.

Mention of the Lewis Hollands reminds us that they and their children, Steven and Larry, recently entertained out-of-town guests in their suburb home. Their visitors were Mr. Holland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Holland of Tomah, Wis., and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Holland and their four children from Wilton, Wis.

EASTBOROUGH

We were sorry to have to say "farewell" again this week—Leaving their Eastborough home on Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Pearson and their two children, Robert and Lynn. The Pearsons, who formerly resided at 6932 Marcia Lane, will soon settle in their new home at International Falls, Minn.

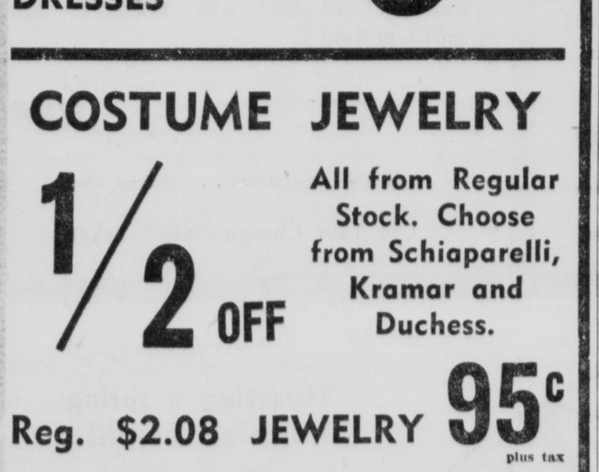

Chatted with Mrs. Jerry Whybark and learned that she and her family, Mr. Whybark and son, Jack, are in the midst of making plans for their departure. The Whybark threesome will leave their home at 7121 Eastborough Lane the end of this month to motor to Moscow, Ida., where they will reside.

Speaking of good-bys and departures there was another suburb family who recently left their neighborhood. Lt. and Mrs. John Haken and their two daughters, however, did not complain when they began the trials and tribulations of moving two weeks ago for they knew that it would only be about three months before they could return to Lincoln. The Hakens are stationed in Montgomery, Ala.

And residing in the Haken home on Marcia Lane during their absence are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Green and their three-month-old son, Timmy. The Green family arrived in Lincoln from Augusta, Ga., where Mr. Green was stationed for six months with the armed services.

Kearney Alumni Criticize Peru Building Need

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

A group of Kearney State Teachers College Alumni Wednesday published a critical report of Peru State Teachers College's need for any new building.

The report had been submitted to Gov. Victor Anderson previously, and the governor had recently made public the Kearney group's survey of building facilities at the two normal colleges.

Wednesday marked the first time, however, that the entire report, containing criticism of the State Normal Board's action on building needs and disbursement of operating funds, was made public.

The Normal Board is the governing body of the four state teachers colleges located at Kearney, Peru, Chadron and Wayne.

Board OKd Peru

The controversy stems from the Normal Board's first granting approval to Peru's request for a practical arts building over Kearney's request for a physical education building.

The Normal Board subsequently voted to proceed with both buildings simultaneously, but Gov. Anderson suggested that both buildings be held up until a survey could be made of the building needs of both colleges.

The Kearney group then asked that a complete survey be made of every phase concerning the four state normal colleges.

In a letter accompanying the report, R. J. Ehly, vice president of the KSTC Alumni Association, said the purpose of publishing the report is to "bring out the facts."

"We believe the truth, aided by public opinion, will in the end bring about the necessary changes in the Normal Board activities."

'Serves Large Area'

Ehly said that "because the Nebraska State Teachers College at Kearney serves a large area of Nebraska, we believe that, unless the College at Kearney is given its fair share of building and operating funds, the result will be a disservice to young people of our state."

Dr. Neal Gomon, president of Peru State Teachers College, has taken sharp exception to the Kearney report and has challenged the accuracy of its survey of existing facilities at Peru and the building needs of the two colleges.

Ehly said that "in view of some of the statements made by those who cannot see the need for adequate buildings and operating funds of this, the largest of the four colleges, we believe the Kearney College case should be heard."

The report was signed by Ehly, Kearney Mayor Earl G. Tunks, Sen. Norman Otto of Kearney, and Harold N. Bacon, president of the Kearney Chamber of Commerce.

'CHILD EVANGELISM WEEK' SCHEDULED

Gov. Victor Anderson Wednesday proclaimed Feb. 16-23 as Child Evangelism Week, in recognition of the International Child Evangelism Fellowship which the governor said is an interdenominational organization seeking to reach "the unchurched children of our nation through the establishment of home Bible classes in every state."

Highway Dept. Plans Pamphlets On Interstate

The State Highway Department is preparing two pamphlets with reference to the Interstate Highway. Both may be obtained free of charge.

One, "The Nebraska Interstate Highway," is "a layman's explanation" of the Nebraska section of the Interstate and its part in the nation-wide system, according to Cecil Eloe, Department public relations man, who is preparing both pamphlets.

The first pamphlet will be about 60 pages.

The second, "Acquistion of Highway Right Of Way in Nebraska," explains methods by which the state can acquire land for highway construction — outright purchase, power of eminent domain or donation of the property by the land owner.

Top Federal Savings, Loan Year Marked

Earnings of the Lincoln Federal Savings and Loan Assn., 126 So. 11th, were reported at an all-time high at the Wednesday annual meeting.

R. H. Mohrman, secretary, told shareholders that the association's reserves have now increased to 12 per cent of outstanding loans and 10 per cent of share accounts.

Mortgage loans were reported to be in excellent condition with only $75.55 in interest earned and uncollected in 1957.

The association paid dividends during 1957 at the rate of 3¼ per cent per annum.

Two directors re-elected to the board for three-year terms were Lulu Runge and Henry J. Amen. Other directors are Ira D. Beynon, Verne Hedge, G. O. Cast, M. W. Ryan and R. H. Mohrman.

Officers of the association are Ira D. Beynon, president; Lulu Runge, vice president; G. O. Cast, vice president; R. H. Mohrman, secretary-treasurer, and Georgi Ann Maixner, assistant secretary.

4 Sentenced On Bad Check Counts

Four men were sentenced to the State Penitentiary Wednesday in Lancaster District court on separate bad check charges.

Sentenced by Judge Harry Ankeny were: James Stevenson, 42, of 1630 So. 3rd, one-year term and $50 fine; George F. Miller (alias Walter C. King), 59, of Montgomery, Ala., two-year term; James K. McBride, 23, of Detroit, Mich., one-year term and $100 fine; and Charles L. McGinnis, 38, no permanent address, one-year term and $50 fine.

Stevenson, McBride and McGinnis were each charged with forgery, involving checks of $25, $31.26 and $32.60, respectively. Miller was charged with issuing a $150 no-account check. All four men had entered guilty pleas.

Is Lack Of Girls Scaring Aggie Coach Prospects?

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "What's the matter with Texas A&M? Why can't they get a coach down there?"

Asst. sports editor Bob Busby of the Kansas City Star said in his column Wednesday this is the question "asked at every turn" and he proceeded to offer an answer based on his various trips into Texas, a recent journey with former Aggie Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant who quit the Texas school to take over at Alabama, and on gossip heard at the recent coaches convention in Philadelphia.

The trouble, Busby reported, is:

"College Station, site of A&M is far from a garden spot . . . It is an all-male school and next year, all students, including the athletes will be required to take military training . . . The nearest collection of girls to A&M is Texas State College for Women at Denton which is far away even by Texas measure. In other words, if you are at A&M you lead a spartan existence; no midweek proms, no jellying at the soda fountain with a dolly.

"All this is not highly conducive to luring top prospects . . . They say The Bear (Bryant) saw lean times coming, with material running low and hard to get . . . They say that whoever takes over at A&M in two years might not be able to win a game.

"Then there is the matter of administration . . . There is an athletic council composed of alumni, faculty . . . And a board of control with the final say . . . Apparently there is bad liaison between the two bodies . . . Each was contacting prospects without the other knowing . . .

"All this would seem certain to frighten even a football coach.

Directors Dissolve Board

But Athletic Group Denies Authority

HOUSTON (AP) — Chairman W. T. Doherty of the Board of Directors of Texas A&M College Wednesday dissolved the board's athletic committee to, he said, clear confusion in the college's efforts to hire an athletic director and head football coach.

Jack Finney of Greenville, chairman of the dissolved committee, replied in a telegram to Doherty, of Houston, "I do not recognize your authority to take such action unless at a regular board meeting or a called meeting."

Thus there appeared to be shaping up a new hassle among the board members, who have been reported divided in their efforts to hire an athletic director-coach to replace Paul (Bear) Bryant, who resigned Jan. 1 to return to Alabama, his alma mater.

There have been reports that some directors have insisted that a big name coach be hired.

Doherty's action climaxed a day in which;

1. A Houston A&M Alumnus asked that five members of the board of directors resign, saying that they had mishandled the search for a coach.

2. Gov. Price Daniel said he would ask for an explanation from officials of the state-supported school.

In announcing the dissolution of the board's athletic committee Doherty said "this action has been taken to clear up the confusion which has arisen concerning the responsibilities and authority of all concerned with the athletic program at A&M College.

"The athletic council of the college, made up of faculty members, has held and continues to hold sole authority for recommending to the board through the president of the college, appointments to the coaching and administrative staff of the athletic department.

"The athletic subcommittee of the board was appointed to serve only in an advisory capacity to the athletic council and the president of the college.

"No reflection on any member of the board's subcommittee is intended nor does one exist in this action."

In addition to Finney, members of the dissolved committee are Herman Heep of Austin, L. H. Ridout, Jr., of Dallas and Price Campbell of Abilene.

A Houston Post story said Wednesday night that "Many believe Campbell has been behind the campaign for a famous coach, aided originally by Finney and (board member H.B.) Zachry of San Antonio, and later by Ridout.

"Zachry, who flew to Washington with Campbell and Finney to interview (Eddie) Erdelatz (Navy coach) last Friday, was not a member of the committee but he financed the trip of the Navy coach and three of his assistants."

Against the big-name bloc, Doherty had the backing of Heep, directors J. Herald Dunn of Amarillo and A. E. Cudlipp, of Lufkin, the newspaper said.

"When Darby, who was voted with either group, joined the big name hunters, the hiring of Jim Myers of Iowa State, which once seemed certain, was blocked by a 5-4 vote."

When first informed of Doherty's decision, Finney said, "I see no reason for this action. We have worked in accordance with the board's instructions. The action appears to put the blame upon us and we do not accept any responsibility for the confusion that now exists."

O'Malley Eyes Coliseum

Los Angeles Dodgers President Walter O'Malley (second from right) looks over the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum with representatives of three tenants of the huge stadium. Offering objections to O'Malley's proposed use of the stadium for baseball are (left to right) Pete Rozelle, general manager of the Los Angeles Rams; Jess Hill, athletic director of the University of Southern California; and Wilbur Johns, UCLA athletic director. (AP Wirephoto)

O'Malley, Coliseum Nearly Agree, But Hit Another Snag

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Coliseum Commission late Wednesday again postponed action on the Los Angeles Dodgers after Walter O'Malley, president of the baseball club, had offered them a flat sum of $200,000 a year to play in the big stadium.

The sudden appearance of a letter from the bond underwriters of the $8,500,000 sports arena, which is under the supervision of the Coliseum Board, delayed the proceedings.

The commission set Friday morning for its next and what it hopes will be a final session on letting the Dodgers into the Coliseum or voting against it.

The underwriters' letter warned that the sale of the sports arena bonds might be endangered if the present contract relations are disturbed with the current and long-time tenants of the Coliseum—the University of Southern California, UCLA and the professional Los Angeles Rams.

The athletic directors of the two schools, Jess Hill of Southern California and Wilbur Johns of UCLA, and Gen. Mgr. Pete Rozelle of the Rams told the commission they would hope their contract with the Coliseum group would be adjusted to conform to the proposed Dodger deal.

The revenue from concessions was a big stumbling block. The schools and the Rams pay a rent of 10 per cent on gross gate receipts, but do not share in the concessions. O'Malley originally asked for a 5 per cent rental and all concession money.

Late in the hearing, however, the Dodger boss made a flat offer of $200,000 a year and retention of the concessions for his 77-game home season.

O'Malley said this would be the highest rent any baseball club ever paid.

Until the underwriters' letter popped up, it appeared the Dodgers might at last, after months and months of negotiations, receive permission to use the Coliseum.

A motion had been made and seconded to approve O'Malley's $200,000 offer, but the group finally voted to recess until Friday. In the meantime, its finance committee will meet with the universities and the Rams to see if an understanding can be reached which would not change their present contracts. If this can be done, and the underwriters assured of all conditions remaining as they have been, it appears that the O'Malley offer may be accepted.

Dukes, 'Angel,' Ready To Go

. . . Albuquerque Troubles Over

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Albuquerque's baseball future is assured for 1958, according to word received Wednesday evening.

The Dukes will inform the Western League directors Sunday at the "deadline" meeting that an "angel" has solved their problems.

An informed source in Albuquerque told The Star Wednesday night that "we've got one of the best setups I have seen. It's almost too good to be true."

Here is the setup:

Tom Bolack, a wealthy Farmington, N.M., oilman and four other men, including R. E. Leggette, president of Albuquerque Baseball, Inc. (small stockholders group), will lease the club from A.B., Inc., for four years.

The group will put up $50,000 to wipe out past debts and another $10,000 for working capital.

At the end of four years, the local stockholders (1,030) group, Albuquerque Baseball, Inc., can buy back the club, debt free, for the payment of one dollar.

Final papers in the deal are now in the hands of attorneys. A two-thirds majority of the stockholders must approve the transaction, but this is considered routine in view of the terms.

The Bolack group also got a tremendous deal from the city of Albuquerque.

Tuesday night the new operators signed an agreement with the city, which gives the Dukes rental of the community-owned baseball park for only one dollar a year. And the city has agreed to foot the bill for all park maintenance.

As soon as the final papers are signed between the Bolack group and Albuquerque Baseball, Inc., the Dukes are slated to ink a partial working agreement with the Cincinnati Redlegs.

The Reds will supply somewhere near 13 players and will help with spring training expenses. Albuquerque will train at Laredo, Tex., where the Reds have their minor league camp.

There are indications that the Dukes may secure a full working agreement (worth about $25,000) with the Redlegs for the 1959 season.

An Albuquerque spokesman said, "We may not have the final papers signed by Sunday, but we will tell the Western League we are ready to go."

Bolack, who has had some political excursions and who reportedly is eyeing a spot in the U.S. senate, originally wanted to buy the Albuquerque franchise, a source said.

But, fearing the possibility of irritating the stockholder-fans, he agreed to the present plan in order to preserve baseball in the New Mexico city.

It was also reported that Jimmy Brown, former St. Louis Cardinal player, will be the Dukes' field manager, while Eddie Brown, who was at Clovis, N.M., last season, will be the general manager.

Meanwhile, at Colorado Springs, the situation apparently is still unsettled. A scheduled meeting of the club directors to discuss the fund drive and settle on a report for the Sunday meeting in Lincoln was called off Wednesday. It's now scheduled for tonight.

There are reports from Colorado Springs that Bill Kice, president of the club, will be ousted and new blood pumped into the Sky Sox organization.

The Sioux City problem remains the big mystery. Adam Pratt has made no announcement of his plans. Des Moines seems set.

At the moment, the 1958 lineup hinges primarily on Colorado Springs and Sioux City.

Eye Injury Ends Career For Satterfield

CHICAGO (AP) — The ring career of hard-punching Bob Satterfield, eighth ranked heavyweight, has ended because of injury which threatens loss of sight in his left eye.

Satterfield, 34, scheduled for a Jan. 29 feature bout at the Chicago Stadium with Wayne Bethea of New York, was advised by an eye specialist never to fight again.

Satterfield knocked out 35 opponents in winning 49 bouts and was knocked out 13 times in 23 defeats. He had four draws in a pro career which began in 1945.

His co-manager, Ike Bernstein, said Satterfield was told to undergo surgery to prevent blindness in his left eye from a detached retina.

Nebraska's prep Big Ten conference is having a miserable basketball year as far as outside activity is concerned, but it looks like another good battle within the conference.

Scottsbluff is the only member to gain a spot in The Star's ratings, but only off one victory in two tries against Boys Town. The Bearcat record still needs considerable proving before Scottsbluff can be considered a strong team.

By divisions, the West half is doing better, with the five members compiling a 13-17 record in overall competition. Against outside competition alone, the West mark is 7-11.

In the East, the five teams have an overall record of only 7-21, and are a miserable 2-16 against outside foes.

But the conference race looks close. North Platte and Scottsbluff, both 2-0 in the league, could settle the Western half this week in a meeting at North Platte. Presently, Kearney is 1-1 in the league, Alliance 1-2, and McCook 0-3.

Alliance may make things tough on its remaining foes. A fellow named Gary Olson 6-5, transferred to Alliance and played his first game last week, earning "Basketball Player of the Week" honors from The Star for his 25 points in a losing effort against North Platte.

The next night, Olson's rebounding was a big factor in Alliance's first victory of the season, over McCook.

A letter from Larry Osterman, sports director of KCOW in Alliance, calls Olson "The best thing to hit Alliance in a long time." Olson is just a junior.

In the East division, Hastings has a 2-0 mark and Norfolk is 1-0. Grand Island and Columbus have 1-1 marks, with Columbus, particularly, looking improved and a contender. Fremont, last year's No. 1 team in the state, is winless this year and looks out of the running.

Which leads us to a suggestion Jimmie Kirkman of the North Platte Telegraph-Bulletin made in his column last week.

Says Kirkman:

While we have, with rare exception, found school officials exceptional cooperative, few think in terms of 'promotion'."

The veteran writer then goes on to suggest that the Big Ten Conference employ a publicist, "Some veteran like Bill Madden, of Scottsbluff (Star-Herald), who could provide the type of pictures and background copy that promotes fan interest."

High school athletics are notoriously lacking in promotion. Undoubtedly, this stems mostly from the idea of "sport for sport's sake," with little regard to making money.

Certainly, let's keep this idea, since high schools are now the only real stronghold of pure amateurism. But a little promotion would never hurt.

For a conference such as the Big Ten, which considers itself probably the best in Nebraska, a publicist sending releases to major news outlets would be a tremendous asset. And certainly it would not be impossible for high schools, particularly the bigger schools, to send weekly releases, providing "inside" material as much as possible, to the outlets.

Almost every high school has a typewriter, and probably a ditto machine or mimeograph. If necessary, there is almost always a student who would be willing to handle the work.

We're all for promotion in high school. The idea that preps shouldn't try and make some money off their athletic endeavors, and shouldn't try to obtain publicity, is old-fashioned and ridiculous. The two aspects don't necessarily have to be a part of "professionalism."

PLAINSMEN HOST TIGERS TONIGHT

Nebraska Wesleyan, fresh from a 69-68 victory over Wayne Tuesday night, get set for another Nebraska College Conference foe when it hosts the Doane Tigers tonight at Taylor Gym.

The Plainsmen, now 2-1 in NCC play, will be bidding for their third straight victory and a chance to get over the .500 mark in season play.

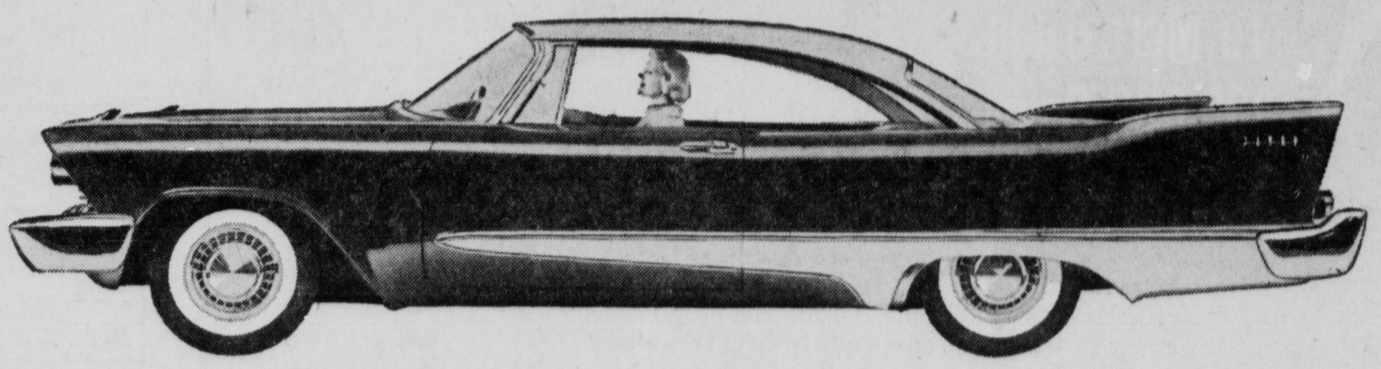

Wesleyan is 5-5 for the season, after losing its first three starts.

Doane owns a 2-3 conference record and bank on 6-5 center Max Horst for their offensive attack.

No Government Aid Seen To Help Minors' TV Plight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spokesmen for baseball's minor leagues took their case against major league television to the Justice Department Wednesday but got no promise of government help.

Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, and Frank Horton, president of the Rochester Redwings in that league, called on Robert A. Bicks, No. 2 man in the department's antitrust division.

Noncommittal statements that followed supported the current belief that official Washington will not intervene to halt plans of six major league clubs to televise a Sunday "Game of the Week" into minor league territory this season.

All the Justice Department would say was that "an exchange of views on the broadcasting issue" had taken place.

Attorney Paul A. Porter, who accompanied Shaughnessy and Horton, said they wanted to acquaint Bicks with the latest TV developments.

"No decisions were reached," Porter said.

It appeared likely that the Justice Department would choose to confer also with major league representatives before making any move. Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said Tuesday he anticipated no new legislation to settle the major-minor dispute but that an approach to the Justice Department might be in order.

Frick, however, has no appointment with the department, which enforces antitrust laws. He was expected to review the problem once more with Presidents Will Harridge of the American League and Warren Giles of the National before deciding whether to come back to Washington.

Frick, Shaughnessy, Horton and George Trautman, president of the minors, met privately Tuesday with Chairman Celler (D-NY) and Rep. Keating (R-NY) of the House Antitrust Subcommittee.

Celler and Keating said they would be "As helpful as possible within the law," meaning federal antitrust statutes. But they asked for time to consider a solution and expressed hope major league clubs would act independently to prevent any damage to the minors.

Aussies Crack More Records

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — John Konrads, the 15-year-old Latvian youth, bettered his fourth world swimming record in four days in the New South Wales Championships Wednesday night.

John Konrads

Shortly after Konrads cracked the 400-meter and 400-yard freestyle marks, another Aussie, John Monckton, bettered the world backstroke standard for 200 meters and 220 yards. The marks were made in the Sydney Olympic Pool.

Konrads, now a naturalized Australian as is his 13-year-old sister, Ilsa, also a world record breaker, was timed in 4 minutes, 25.9 seconds in bettering the previous marks set by Aussie Murray Rose. He clipped 1.1 seconds off Rose's 400-meter record, and 1.2 seconds from the 440 event.

Monckton, 19, won the 220-yard backstroke title in 2 minutes, 18.8 seconds. This bettered the world record set by G. Bozon of France in 1953, by 1.4 seconds. Monckton's time for 220 yards was 2.2 seconds under the mark set by the World Swimming Federation for consideration as a world record.

Last Saturday, Konrads bettered world records for 800 meters and 880 yards when he recorded 9 minutes, 17.7 seconds.

LAFB Free Throw Nips Nebraska Trade, 72-71

MILFORD, Neb.—A free throw in the last seven seconds gave Lincoln Air Force Base basketball team a 72 to 71 win over the Nebraska Trade School here.

Stanford Expected To Name Curtice As Coach Today

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Stanford's athletic board Wednesday approved the man selected as the school's new football coach—presumably Jack Curtice of Utah.

"We made our recommendation to the president of the university," a board spokesman said. "We will not make a public announcement."

There was solid opinion that the Stanford Board of Trustees, which meets today, will announce the selection of the 50-year-old Curtice.

Acrobatic Carpentier Defends Mat Crown In Rough Match

Swift-moving Edouard Carpentier, the acrobatic Frenchman, successfully defended his world's heavyweight wrestling championship at the Fairgrounds Arena Tuesday night as nearly 1,000 fans sat in on ane of the roughest bouts in Capital City mat history.

Carpentier, who gained the world title recently by whipping ex-champ Lou Thesz in Chicago, took two out of three falls from Don Leo Jonathan, a 6-7 giant from Salt Lake City, Utah, who would have made Brigham Young turn green with envy.

Carpentier, the handsome and agile young Parisian, pinned the 300-pound Jonathan in the first fall with a series of back flips followed by a jack knife. But the mammoth Mormon came back to take the second bout with his bone-crushing Mormon sickle.

Carpentier finally settled things when he drop-kicked Don Leo from the ring and referee Jerry Adams counted him out. But the fight wasn't over.

For then Jonathan hopped back in the ring and started the fracas all over again. It took Adams, Joe Dusek and the available police officers to stop things for good.

Sonny Myers, St. Joseph, Mo., speedster, took two straight falls from Arizona strongboy Tommy O'Toole in a fast-moving semi-windup.

And Dusek, who is the Omaha mat promoter, pinned Bob (Legs) Langevin after 16:05 in the curtain-raiser.

Tom Novak, the Lincoln promoter, has booked Carpentier for the main event at the next Capital City rassle Jan.. 28.

Nebraska Grapplers In Action

The University of Nebraska wrestling team meets two foes on the home mat this week end.

Mankato State Teachers are here Friday for a duel meet at 7:30 p.m. and Colorado State meets the Huskers Saturday at 2 p.m.

Mankato Teachers finished eleventh in the NCAA last season and had a record of 6 wins, 2 losses and 1 tie during the regular season.

Ray Minter, senior 177 pounder, was second in the NCAA in 1956 and fourth last year. He has led the team in scoring during the past two years.

Jack Anderson, captain, who wrestles in the 147 pound division, was fourth in the NCAA and won the Iowa State Teachers College invitational last December.

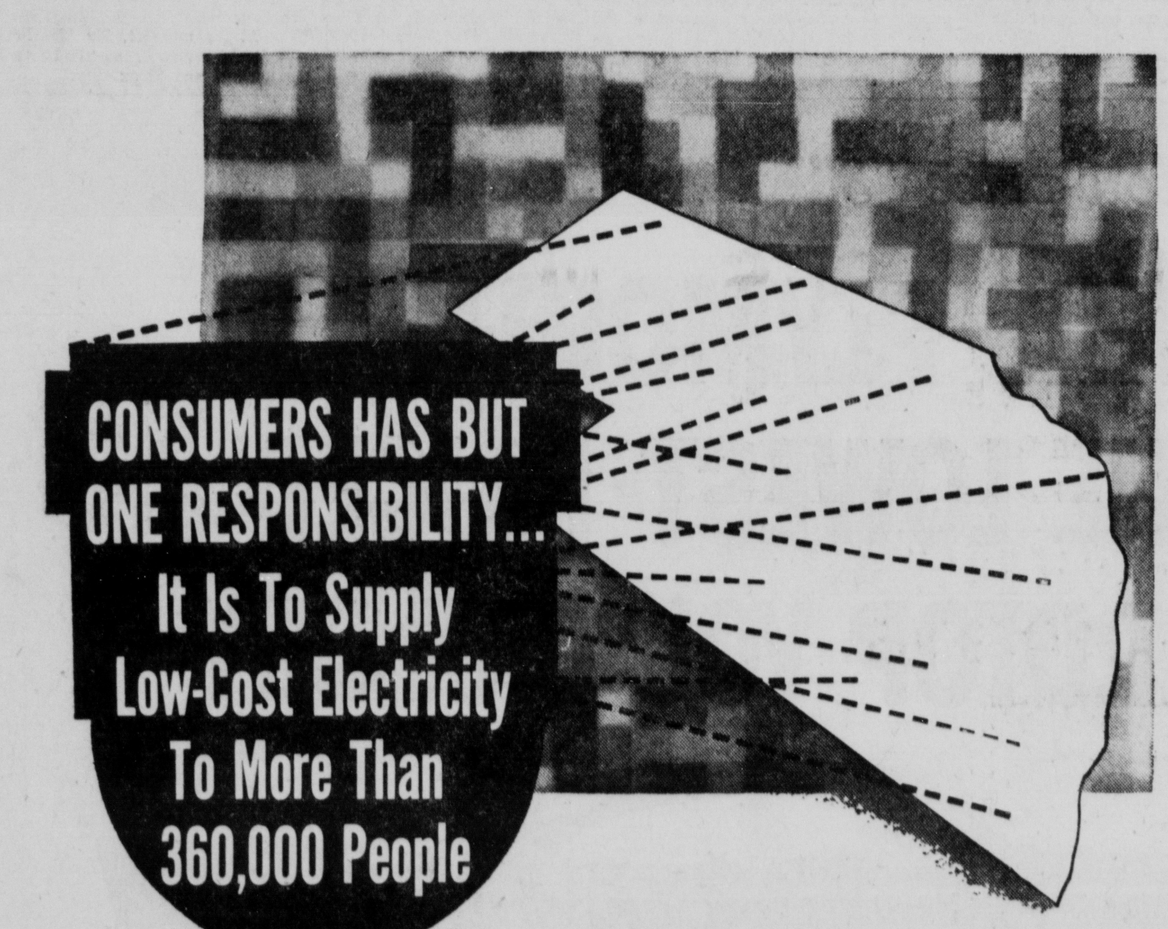

Gail Baum for Nebraska, recovered from an illness, will meet Anderson.

Pat Fitzgerald, who had been wrestling at 177, has dropped himself from the squad.

Bill Lafleur hopes to overcome a slight injury and be ready to avenge a 5-4 loss to Al Belenshan of Mankato when they met a year ago.

The probable lineups:

Mankato State		Nebraska
Jack Thamert	123	Gil Nielsen
Jerry Sharpe	130	Ken McKee
Don Dravis	137	Kent Walton
Jack Anderson	147	Gail Baum
Lowell Glynn	157	Ken Lott

Ray Minter	177	Jim Novotny

State Game Commission Elects Stone Chairman

Floyd Stone, Alliance, Wednesday was elected State Game Commissioner chairman, replacing LaVerne Jacobsen, retiring commissioner from St. Paul.

Leon Sprague, Red Cloud, was named vice chairman, replacing Stone, during the commissioners' annual meeting.

The commissioners voted to establish a 40-hour work week for commission employes in five district offices located at Norfolk, Lincoln, Bassett, North Platte, and Alliance.

The new work week was put into effect to coincide with the recently established 40-hour work week in the state capitol building.

Gene Baker, game commission engineer, was directed to purchase six children's swings, costing $400 each, for use in state recreation areas, and to place signs on the swings stating they were bought with funds realized from the sale of recreation area use stamps.

The one-dollar stamps were authorized by the last session of the Legislature.

Commission director Mel Steen announced his department spent a total of $329,936.41, of which $72,649.27 was federal money, during the quarter ending last December.

This compared with an expenditure of $326,522.45 during the quarter ending Sept. 30, 1957, Steen said.

Commissioners present included Sprague, Jacobsen, Robert Hall, Omaha; George Pinkerton, Beatrice; Don Robertson, North Platte, and Keith Kreycik, Valentine.

Steen said he thought Gov. Victor Anderson will have named a new commissioner to replace Jacobsen by the commissioners' next meeting, Feb. 21.

Here are the state recreation areas in which the new $1 use fee stamp will be required:

Wildcat Hills, Bridgeport, Walgren Lake, Shell Lake, Cottonwood Lake, Rock Creek Lake, Hayes Center, Wellfleet Lake, Ballards Marsh, Long Lake, Arnold Lake, Pressey, Cottonmill Lake, Ravenna, Litchfield, Pibel Lake, Atkinson Lake, Hull Lake, Grove Lake, Hord Lake, Crystal Lake at Ayr, Alexandria recreation grounds, Blue River recreation grounds, Memphis Lake, Fremont Lakes, Dead Timber, Crystal Lake at South Sioux City, Louisville Lakes, Verdon Lake, Melburn, Two areas at Lake Maloney and Johnson Lake.

Martinez Wins Shot At Crown

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Stylish Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., earned a shot at the welterweight championship Wednesday night as he outboxed and outsmarted Gil Turner of Philadelphia in winning a split 12-round decision at the arena. Martinez weighed 147, Turner 145½.

The 28-year-old Martinez earned the right to meet Isaac Logart of Cuba for the welterweight title vacated by Carmen Basilio when he won the middleweight crown from Sugar Ray Robinson.

All three officials saw the welterweight elimination battle as a very tight-fisted contest between the cool, calculating boxer-puncher from New Jersey and the aggressive Turner.

Referee Pete Pantaleo scored the bout 54-53 for Martinez, while judge Jim Mina gave the Paterson fighter the nod, 56-54. The decision was split by Nate Lopinson who called it a 55-55 draw. The Associated Press carded Martinez a 54-48 winner.

Speiser Quits Ring

DETROIT (AP) — Chuck Spieser, who still thinks "I can beat anybody my weight if the desire and determination are there," abandoned boxing and his seventh ranking as a light heavyweight Wednesday.

"I'll never fight again," said the 28-year-old former Michigan State and Olympic athlete in announcing he was quitting for the career of a salesman.

Blackbourn Enters Eagle Grid Picture

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles said Wednesday that Lisle Blackbourn, former Green Bay Packer coach, has asked to be considered when the National Football League club here selects a successor to recently-ousted Hugh Devore.

Devore was given his walking papers last week after two unsuccessful seasons with the Eagles. The dismissal of the former Notre Dame, Dayton and St. Bonaventure coach had been rumored for some time.

George Mikan Ousted

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minneapolis Lakers ousted rookie coach George Mikan in midstream of a miserable season Wednesday and turned the reins back to John Kundla, one of the old pros of the business.

–Federal Reserve Board Report–

Production Dips Sharply

. . . December Output Lowest Since July, '56

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industrial production dropped sharply in December to the lowest level since the steel strike of July, 1956, the Federal Reserve Board reported Wednesday.

The board's index of industrial production fell to 136 per cent of the 1947-49 average, down three points from November and down 11 points from the record level of December, 1956.

Not since December, 1953, during the post-Korea business recession, has the yardstick of mine and factory output declined so much in a single month except during the month-long steel shutdown in mid-1956.

Summary

The board's monthly summary of business conditions said:

"Industrial production and employment continued to decline in December, and unemployment rose further.

"Construction activity was maintained at an advanced level, and retail sales increased slightly.

"From mid-December to mid-January, prices of industrial commodities were stable, while both wholesale and retail prices of foods advanced.

"Substantial expansion of bank credit in December was followed by contraction in early January. Yields on government securities and corporate bonds declined further."

The late-year sag of industrial production brought the year's average to 143 per cent of the 1947-49 average, exactly the same as in 1956.

Steel production was down in December and early January to a rate about 40 per cent below a year ago, the board said, and December auto assemblies were 10 per cent below the November rate. Auto plant production schedules for this month indicate little change from December.

Output of furniture, television sets, paper, chemicals and refined petroleum products apparently held steady, and the output of crude oil rose slightly.

Kline Notes Increase In Property Tax

Nebraskans paid property taxes in 1956 totaling $146.4 million to support state and local government, compared with $50.1 million in 1943, Don Kline, executive secretary of the Nebraska State Education Association, said Wednesday in an address to the Lincoln Board of Realtors.

Stating that the cost of education and all services of government "will not hit their peak for several years," Kline urged that realtors support efforts to broaden Nebraska's tax base to include a sales and/or income tax to help ease the tax load on property

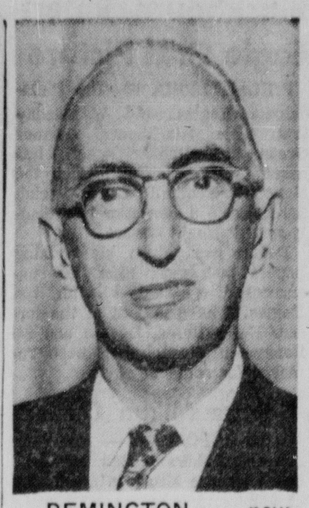

The Nebraska Real Estate Association has for many years gone on record as favoring a broadened tax base.

One Of Three

Kline said Nebraska is one of three states in the nation which does not have a sales or income tax.

It was noted that while property taxes jumped nearly four million dollars from 1955 to 1956, the rise was reflected in the cost of local government, with state government costs remaining nearly constant at $25 million "a credit to Gov. Anderson's hold-the-line policy."

Kline explained that schools take the largest slice of Nebraska's property tax dollar and described the different proposals now under consideration to help bring more revenue into state coffers to aid in the financing of schools.

KENNA . . . asks something be done.

End 'Selfishness'—Get Down To Safety Business—Kenna

It is time Americans stop their "shameful selfishness" and get down to the business of doing something about saving lives now lost due to carelessness, said John T. Kenna, Director of Church Safety Activities Division of the National Safety Council.

In a speech Wednesday night at the 11th anniversary dinner of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Safety Council he admonished Americans to "Stop demanding all the frills and froth of life and get down to the bed rock of life, respect for human life."

"It is about time Lincoln and Lancaster County got Safety Council conscious," he said. He urged each Safety Council member at the dinner meeting to begin working for safety through the other organizations to which the members belong.

New Division

Kenna's branch of the National Safety Council is a new division organized in March 1957. Through his division the council is attempting to enlist help from the nation's clergy in the drive to cut deaths due to accidents from the present rate of about 90,000 a year to at least half, he said.

Thursday at 9:30 a.m. Kenna will meet with Lincoln clergymen in the Council Chambers in the City Hall to discuss the clergy's role in safety. Gov. Anderson pledged Kenna his support in a meeting Wednesday.

New officers were elected by the board of directors of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Safety Council following Kenna's speech. President is C. B. Remington. Wayne Packard and Dale Renner were elected first and second vice presidents. Aurella Plautz was re-elected secretary, Jerry Wakefield is treasurer.

New members of the board of directors announced Wednesday night are: Wayne Reese, Charles White, Arthur J. Whitmer, Allen Korsmeyer, Everett Green, Gardner Moore and L. H. Alberty.

Cobleigh Gets Approval On Zone Change

The City Planning Commission approved Wednesday the application of C. H. Cobleigh for commercial zoning of property at 4727 Calvert.

The property, previously zoned four-family dwelling, is adjacent to and across the street from other commercially zoned land.

In approving the zoning change, the Commission noted that the adjacent property had been rezoned by the City Council.

The application of Mrs. Thelma B. Lime to operate a rest home at 255 So. 29th was denied by the Commission.

Several persons supported Mrs. Lime's application. No objectors appeared.

The Commission said the nursing-home type use of the property would have a "depreciating effect on the neighborhood" and other areas were amply zoned.

In other action, the Commission approved vacation of unopened 54th south of LaSalle, but denied that portion of the application to vacate LaSalle.

It was pointed out, however, that property owners could join to vacate LaSalle.

Judge Van Pelt Moderator Of First Plymouth Congregational

Judge Robert Van Pelt was elected moderator of First Plymouth Congregational Church at the congregation's annual meeting Wednesday night.

The church spent a total of $64,202 in 1957 for local expenses and $9,800 was contributed to benevolences, the Rev. Thomas C. Dick, pastor, reported.

The church tower is now in the process of being tuck-pointed, at a cost of approximately $13,000, according to a report of the Trustees and Building and Maintenance Committee.

Lincoln's Unusual LAFB Adoption Plan Year Old

Thursday marks the first anniversary of the "adoption program" sponsored by Lincoln business and civic clubs for airmen at the Lincoln Air Force Base.

All 25 base squadrons have been adopted by Lincoln clubs which aid in raising funds for base projects and invite the airmen to meetings and social events. In turn, the Lincolnites are invited for tours and meetings at the air base.

The plan, a brainchild of Byron Dunn, president of the National Bank of Commerce, is believed to be the first of its kind anywhere.

Ike Challenges Reds To Publicize His Letter

. . . Makes 'A Goof' At Press Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower belatedly challenged the Russians Wednesday to give "exactly the same degree of publicity" to his new letter to Premier Bulganin as the Soviet leader's December message was given in the United States.

Eisenhower spoke out at a news conference Wednesday as the Soviet press and radio continued to black out all domestic news of the message Eisenhower sent Sunday.

Eisenhower issued his challenge with some embarrassment Wednesday after learning from a newsman that an appeal for equal publicity which he thought was in his message to Bulganin had been taken out before the letter was sent.

He at first insisted, in answering a reporter who asked why he did not make such an appeal, that he had said in the letter: "I hope that this letter will have the same publicity in Russia that we gave yours."

Press officer James Hagerty jumped up at this point to confer with the President and Eisenhower, turning with a sheepish grin, then said:

'Goof'

"Sorry I have apparently made a goof."

Nevertheless, he said, he hoped that his letter would be made known to the Soviet people as extensively as Bulganin's was in the American press and radio, where it was featured for several days.

The Soviet press has published nothing on the Eisenhower letter. The Soviet news agency Tass did refer to it Wednesday night in a dispatch from Washington. Tass said Eisenhower's message tried to blame the Soviet Union for world tensions.

Hagerty was asked afterward how the President's publication request came to be left out. He said it apparently was just dropped somewhere along the line in trying to condense preliminary drafts. Hagerty said neither he nor the President had the slightest idea which draft it was in.

Other officials said one or more drafts did contain a paragraph raising the publicity point.

Some Point

This paragraph was stricken out, apparently by Secretary of State Dulles, because it was decided that since the Russians have been making public exchanges involving heads of government they could be expected to make public the President's note at some point.

Furthermore, it was said, a secondary consideration was that emphasis on publicity might be construed as an indication that the President was sending the note primarily as a propaganda maneuver.

Eisenhower, in replying to reporters' questions, stressed the central point of his message: That a summit meeting "would necessarily have to be properly prepared" through lower level discussions.

Agenda

Eisenhower said these lower echelon talks could include foreign ministers or ambassadors who would help fix a specific agenda. He specified:

"There must be very clear indication and real clear evidence through the foreign ministers meetings that there is to be profitable agreements, profitable conversations (at) the summit, or, in my mind, they would not be valuable."

Eisenhower added that he had "never even thought" of including Red China in any summit-level conference at this time. He gave this answer when asked whether Bulganin's proposal for including other nations would open the door for Red China's joining such discussions.

$6,067 Netted In Salvation Army Drive

A total of $6,067.03 was collected during the 1957 Christmas Cheer Program, Capt. Frank Johnson, head of the Lincoln Salvation Army, told a Victory Dinner celebration at Pentzer Park Center Wednesday.

The money helped pay for food, Christmas gifts and other benefits for needy Lincoln families, Johnson told representatives of civic groups, the Lincoln newspapers and radio and television stations.

Atty. William Hayden of 5424 Walker will head the 1958 Christmas program, Judge Herbert Ronin, head of the Army's advisory board, announced.

Merle Hale, outgoing program chairman, awarded a trophy to the Rotary Club for the highest amount raised by a civic group, $519.19. In addition, certificates of appreciation were awarded to other groups participating in the program.

Flight Success

MOSCOW (INS) — The Soviet press reported the first successful test flight of a new four-engined commercial airliner capable of flying 3,000 miles without refueling.

Newspapers said the IL-18, designed by S. V. Ilyushin, is a turboprop plane capable of carrying 12 to 14 tons of cargo.

Dead-end Accident Kills One

Aurora Driver Loses His Life

AURORA, Neb. (AP) — Ray O. Kohtz, 47, of Aurora was killed and Fredolf Christensen, 55, of Aurora suffered facial cuts and bruises when Kohtz' car went off the end of a deadend county road and plowed into a field.

Hamilton County Deputy Sheriff F. E. Mills said there were no witnesses to the accident, but a farm family living nearby saw the lights and investigated. He said the car went into a 2½ foot ditch on the county road a mile south of Aurora and then into a field, but it did not overturn.

He said there was no explanation as to why the car hit the dead-end.

Kohtz was killed outright, he said, and Christensen was hurled against the windshield, suffering severe facial and body cuts and abrasions. He was hospitalized in Aurora but his condition was not serious. Tuesday was Khotz' birthday.

Mills and Sheriff Ralph Spray investigated.

Kohtz is survived by his son, Richard of Aurora, and his father Richard Kohtz, also of Aurora.

Funeral services have tentatively been set for Friday afternoon in Aurora.

Power Delay Said Greater Than Indicated

OMAHA (AP) — The Omaha district Army Engineers office said Wednesday that delays in delivering additional power from Missouri River dams will be greater than indicated in President Eisenhower's budget message.

The delays will result from a ceiling of 638 million dollars placed on work of the Army Engineers for 1958 and 1959. The ceiling will bring about a rescheduling of work in each division.

The Omaha office said that while the President's budget message said first power from Oahe Dam will be delayed a year, coming on the line in December of 1962, it will actually be July of 1963 before power is available.

At Garrison Dam the delay in delivering new power will be seven to eight months. Two new generators are being installed there and the original date to place them in action was October of 1959 for one unit and early 1960 for the other, the engineers said.

At Fort Peck Dam two additional generators were originally scheduled for use in 1960 and 1961 but now the work will be delayed about nine months in each instance.

The office said that all projects in the Missouri basin were cut across the board so that no projects would be eliminated although all will be slowed down.

Moisture Conditions Much Better Than A Year Ago

'But Timely Summer Rains Needed'

Soil moisture conditions in Nebraska's winter wheat areas are much improved over last year, government crop observers reported Wednesday.

But "timely and effective summer precipitation" still will be needed to insure crops for 1958, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Soil tests taken in October revealed an average of just under five inches of water in the top four feet of soil, or more than 2½ times the amount available a year earlier.

Since October, precipitation has been about normal, with the result that moisture now "is adequate to maintain fall seeded crops and provide moisture for early season growth and strong root development of spring seeded crops," the agency said.

Stocks of feed grains on farms as of Jan. 1 totaled more than 7,600,000 tons, or nearly three times greater than the short supply of 2,700,000 tons a year earlier and well above the 10-year average of 5,200,000 tons.

Farm stocks of corn are estimated at 196 million bushels, largest for this date since 1951. A year ago stocks totaled 81 million bushels and the 10-year average is 160 million bushels.

Farm stocks of wheat totaled about 32 million bushels, slightly above the 28 million bushels a year ago and approximately the same as the 10-year average.

Unprecedented grain sorghum production in 1957 raised stocks to about 48 million bushels as of Jan. 1, compared with 6,721,000 bushels a year earlier and a 10-year average of 2,471,000.

Hay stocks also set a Jan. 1 record at 6,239,000 tons.

CENTRAL ROCKIES EXPECTS SNOW

Rain is forecast for Thursday for North Carolina northward to southern New Jersey. Rain mixed with snow is expected for southern New England and the Ohio Valley. Scattered snows may occur through eastern Great Lakes, northern Appalachians and northern and central Rockies. Rain is also expected in the northern Pacific coast region. Warmer weather is forecast for the central Plains and mid-Mississippi Valley. Little change is expected elsewhere. (AP Wirephoto Map)

December Labor Market Conditions Said Slackened

The State Division of Employment Security Wednesday reported generally slackened labor market conditions throughout Nebraska during December, with new applications for work totaling 7,431, or about 2,800 more than received in November.

However, the division said the total was only 600 above the December, 1956, volume of new applications.

Non-farm placements by division offices in December totaled 4,560, compared with 4,861 in November. Many of the December placements were temporary jobs in retail establishments and post offices.

In Jan. 1, 1958, some 13,794 persons were registered in division office files as actively seeking employment. On Dec. 1, 1957, the total was 11,156, while on Jan. 1, 1957 the figure was 14,821.

Girl, 9, Found Safe; Lost For 24 Hours

Nebraska City Child Spent Night Snuggled Under School Shrubbery

Lincoln Star Special

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb. — Serenity, coupled with thankfulness and relief reigned at the Clarence Underwood home here Wednesday following a frightful night spent searching for 9-year-old Joyce Underwood.

The youngster, who had been missing since Tuesday morning, was found sound asleep about 8:30 a.m. Wednesday safely snuggled under branches of low shrubbery on the east side of the Second Avenue grade school. Despite below freezing temperatures and a light blanket of snow during the night, the child apparently suffered no ill effects.

About 200 persons, including volunteer firemen, American Legion members, and other volunteers began searching at nightfall and through the night for the missing child. A house-to-house canvas was conducted.

Seen During Day

When Joyce failed to report to her third grade classroom at Second Avenue school Tuesday morning, her mother was notified by the school. Mrs. Underwood, herself, looked for Joyce during the day. The child was reportedly seen near the school during the afternoon, and was also seen later in the day.

That was the last trace of the girl until County Sheriff Ralph Hall, Mayor George Sterner and Floyd Webber, a fireman, spotted her Wednesday morning lying beneath the shrubbery branches.

The child was immediately taken to a Nebraska City hospital after being discovered and examined by physicians. She was given first aid treatment, due to some exposure from the cold weather, and later taken to her home where she spent Wednesday resting.

No Explanation

Her father, a mechanic in a local garage, said he had not been able to get an explanation from her in regard to the ordeal as she was still "too upset."

Two local airplanes joined in the search for Joyce Wednesday morning. Volunteers of the National Guard unit here were just ready to help search when word came of finding the child.

Rest and solitude were ordered by a physician for Joyce Wednesday.

The Underwoods have four other children, Linda, 11, Patricia, 6, Vicki, 2, and Randy, 4. Linda and Patricia remained home from school Wednesday as Linda has the mumps.

JOYCE UNDERWOOD

It was reported that about three years ago Joyce had been three hours late in getting home from school. However, it was theorized by authorities that Tuesday she might have been worried about being tardy for school and thus failed to report.

Authorities said the low cedar clump in which Joyce was hidden had been searched several times during the night but the girl had not been spotted.

'Hopper Controls Saved '57 Farmers $21 Million

Nebraska farmers saved $21 million by controlling grasshoppers on range and crop land during 1957. However, the state's number one insect pest caused $7 million damage in the same area during the year.

The total loss in Nebraska due to grasshoppers in all crop and range areas was many times the $7 million figure, according to entomologists at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture.

Total losses are difficult to estimate because grasshoppers feed on so many different crops, the entomologists point out. The most serious damage was done to corn, alfalfa and pasture.

Grasshopper control was more concentrated in eastern Nebraska and on range lands in Keith and Garden Counties during 1957. An estimated 178,800 acres of range and pasture and 1,740,690 acres of crop land were sprayed last year.

European corn borers were second in importance to grasshoppers in 1957 causing an estimated $20 million damage to corn. An important part of this loss was due to second brood corn borers which caused serious ear dropping and stalk lodging, the entomologists report.

136,563 Acres Treated

The late harvest also increased total damage as more ears were lost before corn could be picked than during a normal fall. Late planting and weather conditions during the summer favored the second brood which reached record numbers in most corn growing counties of the state. Approximately 136,563 acres of corn were treated for control of corn borers.

Farmers in the state used over two million pounds of actual insecticides on Nebraska crops in 1957 at a cost of more than $4 million. This would represent an estimated expense of $40 to $50 per farm unit for insect control on field crops. Nebraskans also spent an additional $1 million for insect control in the home and garden.

The combined farm and home insect control cost of more than $5 million does not include expenses for controlling insects on livestock, city health programs, wood destroying insects, or insect pests of ornamental and shade trees. If the total insect control costs of all noxious insects in Nebraska were known, it would be well above $5 million but these materials saved many times that figure in terms of crops and personal property.

Proposed Omaha West Expressway Erased From Plan

OMAHA (AP)—The proposed west expressway paralleling Dodge Street was deleted from a major street plan for Omaha approved by the planning board.

A majority of the members felt the route and plans for building the expressway were too "nebulous" to justify its inclusion.

The basic street pattern is the first part of the master plan called for in the new city charter to receive the board's okay. It will next go to the mayor and City Council.

The 350-mile network of major streets included in the plan will provide a framework for future civic planning. These streets will be given priority for resurfacing and traffic signals and will influence rezoning proposals.

Also the city cannot spend money on future capital improvements projects unless they conform to the master plan.

About 300 miles of the plans streets are already in existance and are generally considered major streets by the public.

In addition there are about 14 miles of proposed connecting links as well as some 38 miles of proposed expressways and interstate highways.

Murder Sentence Parole Given

A 65-year-old Omaha man who had been sentenced to life imprisonment in the Nebraska State Penitentiary for first degree murder was granted a parole Wednesday by the State Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Jeff Lowe, whose life sentence had been cut to 30 years by Board action in 1953, was sentenced to the Penitentiary Dec. 26, 1939 from Douglas County for the murder of Mrs. Regina Schwaczkin of Omaha.

The Pardon Board also granted paroles to seven other Penitentiary inmates, commuted one inmate to a detainer in Massachusetts, paroled two inmates of the Women's Reformatory at York, and granted a full pardon to a 17-year-old Omaha youth who had served a six-month jail sentence in Sarpy County for breaking and entering.

Lowe, who swore to the Board, "You'll never have trouble with me again," said the 18 years he had served in prison had taught him to be able "to get along with myself and therefore able to get along with others."

The Wednesday cases were heard by a two-man board, Attorney General C. S. Beck and Secretary of State Frank Marsh. Gov. Victor Anderson is out of the state.

Board action on other cases:

Nebraska State Penitentiary

Duane A. Donaldson, 29, of Omaha, sentenced July 20, 1954 from Douglas County to seven years for burglary, paroled.

J. Donald Shook, 32, of St. Paul, Minn., sentenced Sept. 22, 1955 from Douglas County to four years for uttering a forged instrument, paroled.

Vincent Shea, 23, of Omaha, sentenced May 31, 1956, from Douglas County to three years for forgery, paroled.

John Giles, 50, of Newton, Ia., sentenced Sept. 13, 1937 from Lancaster County to five years for attempted escape, (did not start serving until May 30, 1944 because of prison sentences in other states, escaped from the Penitentiary and served time elsewhere before returning to the Penitentiary commuted to 12 to 15-year detainer in Massachusetts.

James C. Webb, 23, of Burns, Oregon, sentenced Dec. 8, 1956 from Scotts Bluff and Morrill counties to two to three years for breaking and entering, paroled.

Steve Stitt, 25, of Nebraska City, sentenced Feb. 1, 1955 from Nemaha County to five years for robbery, paroled.

Robert Portrey, 30, of Preston, sentenced August 6, 1955 from Otoe County to five years for statutory rape, paroled.

Edward Cooper, 43, of St. Joseph, Mo., sentenced Jan. 18, 1957 from Richardson County to three years for stabbing with intent to wound, paroled.

Women's Reformatory

Shirley Erpelding, 26, of Kearney, sentenced Sept. 6, 1956 from Buffalo County to two to four years for forgery, paroled.

Josephine Harris, 31, of Omaha, sentenced Feb. 14, 1957 from Douglas County to two years for writing a no fund check, paroled.

County Jail Cases:

David Pardee, 17, of Omaha, served a six-month jail sentence in Sarpy County Jail beginning Dec. 28, 1956 for breaking and entering, granted a full pardon.

Handcar Mishap Brings $135,000 Suit For Injuries

Howard L. Bell of Hallam Wednesday filed a $135,000 damage suit against the Union Pacific Railroad Co. in Lancaster District Court.

Bell alleges in his petition that he suffered a fractured skull, broken pelvis and other injuries when the UP handcar on which he was riding was in collision with a car south of Lincoln on U.S. 77 on Oct. 16, 1956. He alleges the other handcar riders failed to maintain a proper lookout for approaching cars.

New Army Research Chief: 'Interservice Feuds 'Exaggerated'

TOKYO (Thursday) (INS) —The U.S. Army's new research boss voiced the belief Wednesday that reports regarding feuds among America's armed services have been "greatly exaggerated."

Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau was asked at a Tokyo news conference to comment on inter-service disputes.

"I have worked with Air Force and Navy senior officers," the 55-year-old Army general replied, "and have never found that final decisions have been based on anything but sound conclusions."

No Reason

He added there was no reason why the Army, Navy and Air Force could not "come to an agreement on a sound basis" on matters affecting ballistic missile and satellite development in the space age.

Trudeau, presently commander of the First Army Corps in Korea, will succeed the retiring Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin on April 1 as chief of Army research and development.

He warned that the effort to avoid taking "second place" to Russia in missile development will involve "a tough fight requiring positive policies."

Integrate Forces

Trudeau said he did not think the Russians "have anything we cannot compete with or surpass," but added: "We've got to integrate our political, economic, psychological and military forces if we are going to win."

Asked whether he expects to "tangle" with Congress in his new capacity as army research chief, the general replied:

"I wouldn't use the word 'tangle.' I'm sure they will . . . question me. But I've served three tours in the Pentagon and found Congressional committees sincere and conscientious."

First Bomarc Training Unit Is Completed

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Air Force announced Wednesday that the first training unit for the 250-mile Bomarc anti-aircraft missile will be activated Thursday.

The supersonic ramjet missile, capable of carrying a nuclear warhead faster than any attacking plane, will make its first appearance in combat units next year.

The Air Force said the Bomarc unit will be stationed at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., to "develop and conduct a training program" for the missile described as America's most promising anti-aircraft defense.

A contract for 100 Bomarcs was awarded Monday to Boeing Airplane Co., shortly after Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy announced that the first combat unit would be ready during 1959.

The Air Force, in its only official disclosure of the capacity of the weapon, has stated that the Bomarc scored a "kill" on an aircraft 100 miles away.

Platte Population Placed At 25,862

COLUMBUS, Neb. (AP) — The Platte County Board of Supervisors set the county population at 25,862 following testimony presented at an open hearing. The previous county population was set at 20,876, by the board of supervisors in January, 1951.

The new population figure was determined after testimony revealed that the city population showed an estimated increase to 13,266 from the 8,884 federal census of 1950 for a gain of 4,442.

The fringe areas of the city, new sub-divisions and additions, gave the county an increase in population of 733 persons.

'Radioactive' Cargo Said In Wreckage

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — Cargo including "a shipment of white label radioactive material" and a carton of "yellow label sodium sulphide" was disclosed Wednesday to have been aboard the Pan American Stratocruiser which crashed in the Pacific killing 44 persons last Nov. 8.

David L. Thompson, a safety expert for the Civil Aeronautics Board, testified as a two-day San Francisco hearing on the disaster opened that the mysterious cargo was aboard the ill-fated plane, "Romance Of The Skies."

Thompson did not immediately reveal the importance of the items, but it was indicated there would be further testimony about the cargo.

Two CAB members, Hamar Denny and Louis J. Hector, were in charge of the inquiry to which 16 witnesses have been called.

Thompson also testified that a static-distorted radio message was received in San Francisco minutes after the clipper's last routine call.

He said studies of the tape-recorded message failed to reveal whether or not it was an attempt by the plane to send a distress signal.

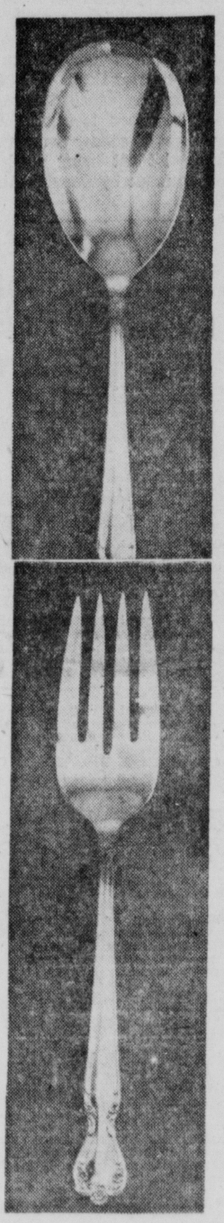

Before the hearing opened, the CAB announced that "possibly disabling" quantities of carbon monoxide were found in 14 of the 19 bodies recovered.

Stocks Post Solid Gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Oils, chemicals and steels posted some solid gains late Wednesday, putting the stock market firmly on the upside for the third straight day.

Gains among some key stocks went from fractions to 1 or 2 points. Aircrafts and coppers were unchanged to lower.

After the close, the Federal Reserve Board cut stock margin requirements to 50 per cent from 70 per cent in a credit-easing move which had been hoped for and anticipated in some quarters.

The market was mixed and without direction early in the session. It was pulled from its lethargy by President Eisenhower's statement that he would prefer a reasonable amount of deficit spending this year to a tax increase. The move to the upside was petering out late in the afternoon when the oils came to life.

The steels, chemicals and other selected issues then accompanied the oils to sizeable gains with trading was more active than prior in the session.

Congressional passage of $549,670,000 for a stepped up missile program apparently was well anticipated. Stocks affected by the boost in spending were laggard.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.20 to $159.40 with the industrials up $2.00, the rails up $1.00 and the utilities up 20 cents.

Of 1,149 issues traded, new highs for 1957-58 totaled 23 and new lows 7.

Volume totaled 2,080,000 shares compared with 2,010,000 Tuesday.

Based on the rise in the AP average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange rose an estimated 1½ billion dollars.

Fourteen of the 16 most active stocks rose and two fell.

American Stock Exchange prices were higher on volume of 540,000 shares compared with 480,000 Tuesday.

NEW YORK (AP)—Corporate bonds advanced on a broad front Wednesday while U. S. government issues declined sharply the second day in a row.

Ike Opposes Tax Increase

...He Would Prefer Red-Ink Spending

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower said Wednesday he prefers deficit spending to a tax boost if his space-age security budget calling for a record peacetime outlay of nearly 74 billion dollars can't be balanced.

The chief executive told his news conference that if missile-dominated government spending exceeds income, "it would be a bad time to raise taxes" and that the nation's economy should have "a needle, rather than a check rain on it."

The President emphasized, however, that all his economic advisers predict "an upswing rather than a continuation of any downturn."

Mr. Eisenhower met with newsmen for the first time since Oct. 30. He gave every evidence of full recovery from the slight stroke he suffered Nov. 25. He looked and sounded hearty and vigorous and smilingly declared, "I feel very well indeed."

The President's anger flashed when he was asked about reports that Dulles, in the face of "increasing criticism," had offered to resign.

He classed such reports as "trash."

Mr. Eisenhower added: "The last person I would want to see resign is Mr. Dulles. I don't mind saying this: I think he is the wisest, most dedicated man that I know."

Highlights

Highlights of the conference included:

The Budget — A "reasonable" amount of deficit spending, if necessary, "is better than talking about a tax bill at this time."

Summit parley—Asked about the possibility of the inclusion of Red China in any East-West leaders' meeting, Mr. Eisenhower said he had "never even thought" about the participation of the Chinese Communist regime in such a session.

Gavin—In terse comment on Gavin's decision to retire in protest against what the general called the Army's "rapidly deteriorating" position, the President said, "It was the act of a man of a particular personality." He said sharply: "If the man wanted to retire, I twas his right, period."

Servce rivalries—Mr. Esenhower said he is preparing to put before Congress "a plan which I think will be effective" in crushing inter-service bickerng over weapons and missiles.

Gather report—The Chief Executive said he "has no intention" of making public the Gaither committee's secret report which is said to warn that the U.S. lags far behind the Soviets and is in grave peril.

Boy Sent To Kearney In Stabbing Case

Fifteen-year-old Stanley Ray Brandon, charged with stabbing an 82-year-old woman last Oct. 25th, Wednesday was committed to the Kearney Boys Training School for an indefinite period by Lancaster District Judge Harry Ankeny.

The youth had pleaded nolo contendere (no contest) to a charge of "assault with intent to wound or maim" on Dec. 19th and had been found guilty.

Judge Ankeny termed the stabbing "a vicious crime" against a "helpless old lady." He said he believes Stanley "needs care . . . and protection against himself." The judge added, however, that a psychiatric examination of the youth at the Lincoln State Hospital showed him to be mentally "normal."

'Well-Mannered'

Nine adult friends of the boy and also his parenst, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brandon of 3419 Cable, appeared in court and asked clemency for the youth. They described him as a "well-manne.ed" and "normal" boy but said he was sometimes "moody."

No clear-cut reason for his attack on Mrs. Electa Moore, formerly of 2227 So. 34th, has been found. The youth attacked her and stabbed her eight times with a hunting knife while making collections on his Lincoln Journal newspaper route.

Mrs. Moore is now convalescing at a rest home in Arapahoe, Neb., where she has relatives. She was hospitalized—and at first reported in critical condition—from Oct. 25th to Nov. 14th.

Howard Brandon, Stanley's father, told Judge Ankeny that the only possible reason he has been able to find for the attack was that Stanley was "momentarily thrown back into the past."

He said that Stanley was brought into the Brandon home and adopted when the boy was seven years of age. "We do not know too much of his previous life," Brandon said, "but we understand that his previous home-life was pretty miserable—so much so that the authorities have not wanted us to know all the details."

Brandon said he believed his son could become a good citizen if given the proper opportunity.

Maximum sentence on the assault charge could have been 20 years in the State Penitentiary, and the minimum could have been probation.

Navy Conducts Static Firing Of Vanguard Vehicle

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Navy conducted a static or ground test of its Vanguard space vehicle Wednesday night.

The Defense Department described it as a routine static test. This signifies that an attempt to launch the Vanguard satellite would be unlikely for more than a week. Heretofore, it has been an average period of 10 days between a final static test and a missile launching attempt.

One or more of the rocket engines in the huge structure apparently was touched off, while the missile remained fastened to its launching pad.

A huge cloud of smoke rose skyward. It was illuminated partially by searchlights which had been playing on the missile for some time. There was some light at the base of the cloud. The flame was not intense, however.

The smoke remained for some minutes. Afterward, the missile again appeared to be venting off vapors as it had been for some time.

This caused some observers to wonder whether the static firing had been complete or only partial.

The Vanguard consists of three stages, and has a total length of 72 feet. Its diameter ranges from 45 inches in the first stage to 18 in the third.

Performance Here By Ballet Russe Attended By 1,750

About 1,750 persons Wednesday night attended the performance at Pershing Municipal Auditorium of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo.

Featured performers Nina Novak and Alan Howard danced the Pas de Deux Classique (The Black Swan) from Tschaikowsky's Swan Lake.

Others numbers were Les Sylphides, The Mute Wife and Gaite Parisienne.

U.S. Population Is Over 172,000,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The population of the United States was about 172,554,000 on Dec. 1, the Census Bureau estimated.

This represents an increase of 3,013,000, or 1.8 per cent over the same day a year ago and a gain of 21,421,000, or 14.2 per cent since the 1950 census.

Two Gunmen Get $50,000

. . . Bank Door Unlocked

FALMOUTH, Ky. (AP) — Two gunmen disguised by orange stockings entered the First National Bank Wednesday through an apparently unlocked door, slugged a teller and fled with loot that may reach $50,000.

Later in the day, a lone bandit held up the Planters Bank at Trenton in southern Kentucky of $4,800.

The FBI said two Negroes were being held at Springfield, Tenn., in connection with the Trenton holdup.

The two robberies brought to eight the number in Kentucky since Nov. 23, the FBI said, adding that all but two have been solved. At least 20 persons are awaiting trial for sentencing.

The bandits entered the Falmouth bank when Miss Pearl Ruber reported for work. They ordered her to open the vault. When she complied, the men scooped up the cash and knocked her unconscious.

She was found 15 minutes later by another employe reporting for work.

George C. Bradford, vice president, told a newspaper photographer: "The rear door probably was not locked. We leave it unlocked for the janitor."

Asked if the practice of leaving a bank unlocked wasn't unusual, Bradford replied: "What difference does it make? Crooks carry skeleton keys anyway."

Teamster Members Sought

. . . By AFL-CIO

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIO Wednesday was reported considering a plan to offer special charters in the federation to any Teamsters Union locals wanting to secede from their expelled parent truck union.

Federation sources said the AFL-CIO has received "quite a number" of such requests from Teamsters locals and probably will decide on the matter at the AFL-CIO Executive Council sessions starting Feb. 3 at Miami Beach.

The contemplated move was reported as it became known the AFL-CIO is quietly passing out word that, effective Feb. 1, it will abolish the jobs of nearly 100 organizers out of a 218-man organizing staff. A number of other AFL-CIO headquarters employes are slated for dismissal on the same date.

Lost Dues

The retrenchment program was attributed to recognition that little organizing progress has been made in recent years and that the federation lost close to one million dollars annual per capita dues revenue when the giant Teamsters organization was expelled Dec. 6 on corruption charges.

Two other unions, the bakery workers and laundry workers, were expelled at the same time with consequent further dues losses. The AFL-CIO has chartered a new Bakery Workers Union, now claiming about a third of the original union's membership. Laundry workers locals have been encouraged to apply for special AFL-CIO charters.

A move to issue special charters to seceding Teamsters locals would represent a decision to try to take over the Teamsters membership piecemeal rather than seek to establish a new AFL-CIO truck drivers union.

Retired Colonel Quiet At Hearing On Theft Charges

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Nervously chewing his thumb and shielding his face from photographers, retired Lt. Col. Melvin Russell Blair sat silently Wednesday through a brief Municipal Court hearing on charges of trying to steal $40,000 in Bing Crosby golf tournament receipts.

His preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 27.

Authorities were trying to fill in the background on the decorated war hero, who retired from the Army three years ago.

Sheriff's Capt. Darrell V. Smith said a federal warrant was issued last December for Blair in connection with a $50 check passed at the Fort Leavenworth, Kan., post exchange last June.

Blair had told officers the only trouble he had been in previously was two fracases in the Washington, D.C., area.

Blair, 42, was jailed early Monday morning after a fight with Dep. Sheriff Tom Martin, who subdued Blair in an office where the Del Monte receipts were kept.
